ABLE LEADERS SHAPE LAWS IN UPPER HOUSE

Tax Measure, Through Conference Successfully, Was Difficult Legislation

MANY IMPORTANT BILLS
Experienced Handling of Hard Resolutions Marked in Senate This Year

Washington—(AP)—So many comparisons have often been made between the leadership of the old pre-war days in the senate and the supposed lack of leadership in present-day affairs in the upper house that an analysis of just what has happened in the present session in this respect is pertinent.

The tax bill which has just been put through conference successfully was one of the most difficult pieces of legislation that congress has passed this year. The leadership of Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee, was responsible for not only numerous compromises but the steering of the bill quickly through both the senate and the conference committee. In fact, after the senate passed the bill, inserting numerous changes, the measure was in conference a shorter time than any tax bill since the war. This was due to the fact that the Utah senator shaped his course in the senate with an eye to what could be accomplished in the conference committee of both houses. The one error which the senate made in including the clause with reference to the publicity of income tax returns came because of the absence of several senators and was promptly corrected when the conference report came back to the senate and the full membership of the upper house had an opportunity to express itself.

CRITICIZE REVENUE BILL
While the new revenue bill is subject to a good deal of criticism it is on the whole going to be regarded as much better than nothing, especially the prospects at one time were that tax legislation would be lost in the shuffle.

The administrative provisions of the new law are not likely to be widely understood until the tax lawyers of the country have had an opportunity to sift out some of the new ideas in it, but the dropping of the house provision which would have prevented consolidated returns for corporations was perhaps the most confusing section with which the business interests would have had to contend and in the sense that it has a new meaning altogether many corporation treasurers will breathe easier.

The plan of the house to give a reduction to persons in the so-called middle brackets, having incomes between $20,000 and $50,000, fell by the wayside, but undoubtedly enough sentiment has been created in its favor so that the next revision of the revenue laws will include some material relief to that particular group.

Broadly speaking, the whole tax law has been aimed this time more to affect indirect taxation than direct. Corporation taxes, for instance, have been reduced partly because of the belief of members of congress that the holders of securities are very numerous nowadays. Also the automobile tax has been reduced so that the net cost to the new purchaser will be lower by the amount of the tax hereafter paid. Greater exemption in the payment of club dues and admissions were aimed at the large number of voters who look to the golf links or the theaters for amusement and recreation.

HARD TO AGREE
With the many groups and coalitions of a make-shift character that develop nowadays in congress, it is hard to get agreement even on important legislation which it would seem would have easy sailing. Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, whose personality is the kind that makes friends and calmly reconciles opposing groups, has had during the past session, an opportunity to demonstrate that while the new leadership may not be spectacular it is nevertheless effective. The job of Senator Curtis has been made easier by the practical cooperation given him by the minority leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who has been able to keep his own party from engaging in dilatory and obstructive tactics which in the past have been used to block legislation. And in the case of the new revenue law which was in charge of Senator Smoot of Utah, the job of steering that measure to final passage will stand out as one of the best examples of experienced handling of controversial measure that has been witnessed in a present day congress.

AGAINST 11 OWNERS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Prohibition raids made the past two weeks resulted in padlock actions being started Monday against 11 soft drink parlors by the federal district attorney.

All are ordered to show cause in 20 days before Federal Judge F. A. Geary, why their places should not be closed for one year under the nuisance provision of the Volstead law.

Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, strong anti-Smith, Democrat, leads the New York governor in early precinct voting in North Carolina and is likely to receive the state's delegation to the Houston convention.

3 INJURED AND 2 ARRESTED IN AUTO CRASHES

Police Hold Two Autoists for Failing to Stop After Accidents

A half dozen cars were damaged, three persons were slightly injured and two drivers were arrested for failing to stop after accidents here over the weekend.

Probably the most serious crash occurred about 10:15 Sunday night at the corner of W. Wisconsin-ave and Gillett-st. when Miss Frances Perrine, 22, 219 W. Hancock-st. suffered severe cuts and abrasions on her legs in a collision with the car of Philip Lewis of the Menasha Quaternary Products company, route 1, Menasha, who was the driver of the car in which Miss Perrine was riding. Lewis going east on Wisconsin-ave, collided with a machine driven by C. C. Smith, 213 N. Gillett-st. Smith was going west on Wisconsin-ave and attempted to make a left turn and go north on Gillett-st. Smith was accompanied by his wife and three small children.

Lewis's machine, a small coupe was almost totally demolished and Smith's car also was badly damaged. Miss Perrine was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Edward Gerlach, Weyauwega.

YOUTH KNOCKED DOWN
Kenneth Coffey, 22, 605 N. State-st. suffered cuts and bruises about the face and shoulders when he was run down by a machine driven by George Hesse, 803 S. Cherry-st. on S. Cherry-st. about 8:15 Saturday night.

The young man parked his truck in front of 52 S. Cherry-st. and was alighting from the left side, having

Four Flower Cars Start Operating Next Saturday

Next Saturday morning four Appleton Post-Crescent "Flower Cars" will start their annual trek through the Fox river valley gathering flowers for sufferers in three hospitals located in Neenah, Appleton and Combined Locks. Last year two cars were employed in Appleton only and all the flowers were delivered to St. Elizabeth hospital and Riverview sanatorium but this year there has come a demand from readers in Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna that they also be privileged to give flowers which will help cheer up the sufferers in hospitals.

In order to meet this demand the Post-Crescent will send Flower Cars into Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute, Kaukauna and Kimberly, in addition to the two in Appleton. All flowers gathered in the Twin Cities will be delivered to Thea Clark hospital; Little Chute, Kimberly and Kaukauna flowers go to the sanatorium at Combined Locks and flowers given by Appleton people will be sent to St. Elizabeth hospital.

The cars will start shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning along routes that will be laid out later in the week. Every reader of The Post-Crescent is invited to participate in

DEFEATS MOVE FOR CLOSING LATE TUESDAY

Vice President Dawes Breaks 40-40 Tie; Won't Adjourn Saturday or June 5

Washington—(AP)—Senator Johnson of California Monday failed in his attempt to postpone adjournment of congress until June 5, to give more time for action on the Boulder Canyon dam bill.

His efforts were made by offering an amendment to the resolution setting Tuesday at 5 p. m. as the adjournment hour, but he was unable to muster sufficient votes.

Johnson then proposed next Saturday for adjournment and this was voted upon immediately.

The vote for the June 5 adjournment was lost 33 to 41.

The Saturday adjournment date was defeated also by a narrow margin.

The senate Monday defeated a motion to adjourn Congress Tuesday at 5 p. m.

The vote was 40 to 40 and Vice President Dawes broke the tie by voting against the resolution.

Previously the senate had defeated two attempts by Senator Johnson of California to prolong the session in order to give more time for action on the Boulder Canyon dam bill.

This leaves congress without any adjournment hour for this session. Attempts to fix June 5 and the next Saturday as the adjournment date were defeated.

When the vote for adjournment Tuesday was announced vice president Dawes immediately voted in the negative and the house resolution was defeated.

CHEER DAWES VOTE
When the vice president struck the desk with his gavel and said the chair would vote "aye" his announcement was greeted with applause from both the floor and the gallery. Mr. Dawes did not undertake to shut it off.

Asked what the next move would be Senator Curtis of Kansas the Republican leader, smiled and replied: "We are in session."

"How long?"

"Indefinitely."

Surprised at the defeat at every adjournment move, leaders sat back and declared the situation was in the hands of those who wanted the indefinite session. Both Senators Curtis and Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, voted for the house resolution.

WISCONSIN AGAINST
Twenty Democrats and twenty Republicans voted for the adjournment resolution while 20 Democrats and the one Farmer-Labor member, Shipstead of Minnesota, joined with 19 Republicans in opposing it. Blaine and La Follette of Wisconsin voted against adjournment as did Couzens and Vandenberg of Michigan.

VINJE RECOVERING AT MOUNTAIN RESORT

Iron Mountain, Mo.—(AP)—A. J. Vinje, chief justice of the Wisconsin Supreme court is taking a brief holiday from his judicial duties in the Ozark Mountain region of Missouri. He is visiting his daughter, Mrs. A. N. Walker.

Justice Vinje is convalescing from an illness which has kept him from the bench for several weeks.

As lover of outdoor activities, he has opportunity to enjoy the beauty of this rough, hilly section of Missouri's mountain region.

Casualty List Increases As Possemen Hunt Bandits

Scott City, Kan.—(AP)—A casualty list showing three dead, one missing and two wounded Monday kept scores of possemen on the alert in the hope some trace would be found of the four desperadoes who disappeared in the canyons and thickets of the rugged country after robbing a bank at Lamar, Colo., Wednesday last.

After four days devoted to following vague leads, posse Sunday hurried to a cabin near Healy, Kan., when the robbers were reported harried.

The report proved to be without foundation.

The tension under which the tired possemen worked was indicated Saturday night when L. L. Robinson of Hill City, Kan., and Carl T. Peterson, former sheriff of that city, were shot and seriously wounded by possemen. Robinson and Peterson were on patrol duty near Norton and drew the fire of a posse sent to that area on the report of a farmer boy that "bandits held me up."

While search had not been entirely abandoned Monday, many of the volunteers returned to their homes. Scores had had little sleep since Thursday night when Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton, 20 miles east of here, was kidnapped to treat one of the robbers wounded by bank officials and slain the next day.

With the man hunt continuing in this section, funeral services were held at Lamar for A. N. Parrish, president of the First National bank there, and his son F. Parrish, cashier, slain when they returned the fire of the robbers. Parrish, pioneer western banker, who was known for his ability to use a pistol, only was able to wound one of the robbers before he fell with a bullet in his head.

Among the hundreds who attended the ceremony was Governor W. H. Adams of Colorado.

Finder, left little hope that the life of E. A. Kessinger, kidnapped cashier of the Lamar bank, had been spared. He was used as a shield when the robbers escaped in a running gun fight with Colorado officers the day of the robbery.

SMITH FORCES
LOSE IN EARLY
CAROLINA VOTE

Representative Hull, Tennessee, Leads in Democratic Precinct Meetings

Charlotte, N. C.—(AP)—A victory for the forces opposing Governor Smith has been won in the Democratic precinct meetings over the state preliminary to the June 2 primary, the county conventions, and finally the state convention set for June 12 when delegates to Houston will be selected.

Returns tabulated by newspapers from 84 of the 100 counties having a state convention vote of 1869 Monday showed Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee leading Smith by 154 votes. The vote was:

Hull 532; Smith 379; uninstructed 652; doubtful 103; anti-Smith 95; instructed to vote for a dry candidate 36; Governor McLean 6, to be selected at a mass meeting June 9, 64.

While both the Hull and Smith camps are claiming large blocks of state convention delegates from counties in which precinct meetings gave no instructions, and many are known to favor one or the other candidate, the fact that every Democrat is eligible to attend more than one county convention makes the situation an involved one.

Indications Monday were, however, that the hot battle being waged between the Smith and anti-Smith groups would continue to be fought toe to toe right up to the June 12 convention.

SEE SMITH DEFEAT
Washington—(AP)—Senator Simmons of North Carolina, sees in the results of the precinct meetings in his state Saturday a "smashing defeat for Governor Smith and a strong endorsement of Cordell Hull for the Democratic presidential nomination."

The senator, who is leader of the Democratic organization in his state, added that all that was necessary to make victory certain at Houston for Smith opponents was "courage on the part of the leaders of those who oppose his nomination and exercise of diligence and vigilance to meet the efforts of such a powerful and highly financed organization as that behind the candidacy of Governor Smith."

The North Carolinian said he did not believe Smith was assured of as many as 500 votes at Houston and instead of that number increasing he thought it would decrease from now on.

TEXAS LEADER ASKS SUPPORT OF FARM GROUP

Lone Star Democratic Candidate Invites Farmers to National Convention

Houston—(AP)—His hat in the Democratic presidential ring but a few days, Jesse H. Jones of Houston has already made a bid for the support of the farmer.

On record as willing to become a candidate for president provided he "can better serve the party in that capacity," the millionaire lumberman and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, Sunday invited the farmers to come here for redress instead of "marching on Kansas City."

His statement issued after he was shown comment on the failure of the McNary-Laughlin bill from the middle-west, said:

"The farmers will not be actually welcome at Kansas City because excuses must be made there, but we welcome them most cordially to Houston where a party platform will be written that will insure equal opportunities to all American citizens to sell and buy in fair markets without discrimination or class favors."

Marching on the Republican convention at Kansas City will be of no avail. What the American farmer needs is to put his faith in the Democratic party as he did in 1912 and 1916."

After thanking Texas Democrats for naming him as their choice for president at their state convention last week, and urging a harmonious national convention at Houston, Mr. Jones said:

"And while I have said that I am not a candidate for anything except the confidence, the respect and good will of the people amongst whom I live, I can better serve the party as a candidate, then I would gladly be a candidate."

YOUTH NEAR DEATH
AFTER AUTO WRECK

Walter Powers Terribly Cut About the Head When Auto Goes into Ditch

New London—(AP)—Walter Powers, 20, suffered injuries which may prove fatal early Saturday morning when an automobile in which he was riding overturned at Oaschar's corner, near Bear Creek.

The machine was driven by Harry Klatt but the driver escaped with slight bruises.

Powers and Klatt had attended the Junior prom and had taken their partners to their homes at Bear Creek and were returning to their homes here when the machine failed to negotiate the sharp turn and rolled over into a ditch.

The injured man was brought to a local hospital by Mr. and Mrs. William Fremonting who came by a few minutes later.

Oaschar's corner has the reputation of being dangerous for autoists and in the past several people have been killed and many others injured in accidents there.

Powers suffered severe cuts about the throat and head and is in a serious condition because of the loss of blood.

BROTHERS FOUND DEAD IN BLAZING RESIDENCE

Prior Lake, Minn.—(AP)—Two dead brothers were found in the first sweepings of their home near here Sunday and county authorities Monday held as "material witnesses" two men alleged to have visited the victims Saturday night.

The bodies of Andrew Bergman, 75, and his brother Samuel, 79, were found in the ruins of the Bergmans' home.

The platform upon which they will run demands recognition of Soviet Russia, repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, recall of American troops from China and Nicaragua, establishment of the fire-day—40-hour week for labor.

Mather, Pa.—(AP)—Eight bodies were taken from the Mather mine Monday and the total number removed from the workings that were torn by an explosion a week ago last Saturday was increased to 180.

Mine officials said that 15 bodies still were in the mine.

NEW PROBE

Capone Now Aids Police Keep Order

"Big Shot" of Gangsters Pledged to Stop Racketeering, Terrorism Among Dyers

Chicago—(AP)—What police have been trying for months to do—stop racketeering and terrorism in the cleaning and dyeing business—Monday had become the chore of Al Capone, the "big shot" of the gangsters.

Capone, who has been blamed for much and found guilty of nothing, has become a principal partner in the "Santary Cleaning Shops, Inc., which has a large plant near Pearson, Ill., a cleaner and dyer for 12 years.

Boeker, in a statement given out to the Employers' Association, said the alliance with Capone gives him "the best protection in the world" from racketeers and others who he charges have threatened his business with bombs, violence and intimidation.

Capone, second in command of the North pole voyage of the Norge in 1926, was awarded the first leg of a trip to Spitzbergen to begin a search in the air for the missing dirigible Italia.

Lieutenant Holm who intends first to explore the north and northeast coasts of Spitzbergen, hoped to arrive at Tromsø at midnight. He will immediately board the sealer Hobby, hired by the Italian government for the Spitzbergen trip, which is ready to start as soon as the naval monoplane is located aboard her.

Lieutenant Holm was accompanied by Mechanic Myre.

The steamer Braganza which also is at Tromsø started Monday for Spitzbergen. Her commander will get in touch with the Italia's base ship, Clitta di Milano and will assist in a search for the Italia.

Preparations are being rushed for a large scale auxiliary expedition to search for the missing dirigible. It is expected that the details will be concluded Monday night.

No word as to the exact plans has been divulged and the Italian legation refuses any information. It is believed, however, that Captain Riiser-Larsen, second in command of the Norge pole voyage of the Norge in 1926, will be in charge of the expedition.

Amundsen said it would be premature to believe that the worst had happened. Even if the airship had failed to make a landing, he thought that General Noble might yet get in touch with some civilized people who pointed out that the Italia could remain in the air three or four weeks as a free balloon and that she carried enough food to sustain her crew for a month, or even six weeks on short allowances.

Artic experts spent the weekend discussing all possible contingencies concerning the Italia. In view of meteorological reports, Captain Riiser-Larsen said that the Italia probably had landed somewhere north of Spitzbergen and that it was not likely that the ship had been driven any further.

Lieutenant Holm therefore has been given orders to fly from Kings Bay northward searching along the ice-covered coast or north and eastern Spitzbergen. If this theory should prove correct, it is felt that there is good hope that the crew of the Italia can be rescued.

RUSH RESCUE EFFORTS FROM TWO NATIONS

Norwegian Air Ace Leaves for Spitzbergen to Carry on Search from Above

POLAR HEROES HELP Amundson and Sverdrup Prepare Auxiliary Relief Expedition on Large Scale

(By the Associated Press)

The fate of the dirigible Italia was still a mystery Monday as rescue efforts were rushed in Norway and Spitzbergen.

Lieutenant Lucetow Holm, Norwegian air ace started for Spitzbergen with a hydro airplane to carry on an air search along the north and northeast coast of the archipelago. The sealer Hobby will carry the plane to Kings Bay as soon as possible.

Ronald Amundson and Captain Otto Sverdrup, noted Polar explorers, aided the Norwegian authorities in preparing an auxiliary relief expedition on a large scale with Captain Riiser-Larsen in command.

The base ship Clitta di Milano put out from Kings Bay Sunday but was held up by ice floes.

The steamer Braganza put out from Tromsø to assist the Clitta di Milano. Oslo was the center of all sorts of rumors regarding the possible fate of the Italia but none of these could be confirmed.

Efforts in California to pick up further messages believed relayed from the Italia saying that the ship had met with disaster, were fruitless. The messages first reported Sunday are believed to have been relayed at Vladivostok.

The Italia was six and a half days out of Spitzbergen Monday, last definite word from her having been received at 9 o'clock Greenwich time Friday morning 4 o'clock Eastern Standard time.

URGENT REFORESTING AS MEANS OF SAVING DELINQUENT TAX LAND

Department of Agriculture
Advocates Program to Help
Out Towns and Counties

In an attempt to redeem cutover and abandoned lands in Wisconsin which have reverted to counties because of nonpayment of taxes the Wisconsin College of Agriculture is advocating a program of reforestation under the new state forest crop law, which exempts all land used for reforestation from taxation and allows 50 cents state aid for each acre.

It is only because of actual or anticipated revenue that owners are willing to pay taxes on land and, consequently, as timber is stripped from northern counties and much of the land proves unfit for farming, cutover and abandoned land has been reverting steadily to the counties. Counties which have adopted the policy of taking tax title to delinquent lands find themselves burdened with immense areas of what to do with these lands is now the issue.

Since any corporation—and a county is incorporated under the laws of the state—may own land, it is expected that counties burdened with this land will seek to establish reserves.

A total of 400,000 acres can be reforested in 1928, which area may be increased until it reaches 1,000,000 acres in 1934, under provisions of the forest crop law.

There is a growing tendency in the cutover regions to consolidate agricultural settlements, even to the point of advocating transferring settlers in thinly settled sections to the more populous districts where farming has proved feasible. This would be done to reduce road and school costs.

That the delinquent tax problem is not going to disappear over night is evident from the following table showing the amount of county tax money tied up in county owned tax certificates from long time delinquencies.

Amount tied up in county owned tax certificates of county	Assessed valuation of county
Ashland	$171,000
Bayfield	217,000
Clark	217,000
Douglas	305,218
Iron	150,000
Juneau	107,000
Langlade	198,972
Lincoln	121,000
Marquette	235,665
Oconto	100,995
Ondaga	150,721
Rusk	200,000
St. Croix	16,689,000

In many of these counties there are twice or three times these amounts represented in delinquent taxes which the county has refused to take over. This is especially true in swamp districts where the counties steadily refused title, preferring to escape liability or drainage bonds.

In Outagamie county, records in the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, show that on Dec. 31, 1927, there was a total of $100,132 in delinquent real estate and drainage district certificates being held by the county. The assessed valuation of Outagamie is $122,754,452.

Of the total certificates held by the county, $51,093.26 was in real estate certificates and the balance, $49,039.74, was in drainage tax certificates, held in trust by the county. The county board, at its February session, in an effort to reduce the amount of county owned certificates and to turn them into cash, authorized the finance committee to sell the certificates at less than face value, depending on the actual value of the land and the possibility of redemption of the certificates.

In accordance with this plan, the finance committee visited those sections of land to which the county held tax certificates. In many instances it was found that the value of taxes against the land was double what the land actually was worth. The finance committee then decided to offer for sale, at 15, 30 and 50 per cent of their face value, all county owned certificates.

One sale has been made since the committee made this decision and that was to Dr. H. H. Sherwood of the Hantschel Bond company, Chicago. He paid the county $4,467.30 for tax certificates totaling $21,312.75. The Chicago firm paid $1,925.30 for $12,347.25 worth of tax certificates that were sold at 15 per cent of their face value and $2,544.50 for $4,462.03 worth of certificates sold at 30 per cent of the face value.

This single sale reduces the amount of county owned real estate tax certificates to $28,590.51. The amount, approximately $2,000 more has been redeemed by the owners since Dec. 31, thus leaving the county with about $27,000 in delinquent certificates.

There has been no action in Outagamie so far to have any of this land converted to reforestation although it is possible some interested parties may investigate the plan.

In speaking of the use of Wisconsin lands for reforestation, Dean H. L. Russell of the university says this:

"A soil that has grown the amount and quality of pine that was once produced in the state, north woods, is by no means ruined of its timber growing qualities.

"If we have enough lands in farms to produce all the food that is now required, may it not be wiser to use this land for timber production? It is a fundamental tenet of forestry that timber should not be grown on lands that are better adapted to farming. But it is conceivable that for many years to come the demand for timber may be greater than for farm produce. We have many acres in Wisconsin that are below the margin of successful operation. Why not put these sub-marginal lands to work in timber development?"

"With the destruction of the forests in the cutover belt has come the lessening of the ability to pay the public improvements in certain sections of the state. Local governments are greatly hampered through tax delinquency in meeting necessary expenses. Even schools have suffered.

"Land that has once borne its share should, if possible, be made productive again, and sooner or later even the less valuable land should be utilized.

Joseph Freund and Frank
Winkel Maintain Innocence
When They Get in Court

Two Appleton men arrested Sunday and charged with driving while drunk, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning.

Preliminary hearing for Joseph Freund, route 5, was set for June 7 and preliminary hearing for Frank Winkel, 872 E. Harrison-st., was set for June 5. Each furnished bonds of $100.

Freund was arrested by Officers Carl Radtke and Albert Delfgen on E. Wisconsin-ave about 12:10 Sunday morning. The officers were returning from Black Creek, where they had been searching for a stolen car, and on the way back they noticed Freund driving from side to side in an erratic manner. They followed him to Appleton and placed him under arrest.

Winkel was arrested by Officer Carl Radtke about 10 o'clock Sunday night on E. John-st. after his car went into a ditch. Residents in the neighborhood called the police.

Industries. It is stated, for pulp timber can be grown in about half the time that it takes to produce lumber. Wisconsin is the second state in the Union in pulp production and third in paper. An important industry that is now obliged to import the bulk of its supply from the south, the Pacific coast, Canada and even from northern Europe.

The program favored is for the reforestation of more than 3,000,000 acres in the state to balance out the farm industrial development of the state. Economists point out that this would have the threefold benefit of reducing the delinquent tax problems; put idle land to work and revive and increase both the industrial and recreational revenues.

DON'T RIDE FAST ON YOUR WAY TO THE PLENTY KIDNAPS Memorial Day, but it's safe and sane sport in letter golf.
Par is five and one solution is on page 8.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change FOW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must use a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations do not count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

STOEGBAUER PICKED AS SECRETARY AT HOLY NAME RALLY

9,000 Men Attend Rally of Catholic Societies in Oshkosh on Sunday

Aloys H. Stoegbauer of this city was elected secretary and treasurer of the Holy Name rally Sunday at Oshkosh attended by 9,000 men from cities in the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church. Professor Stachle of Oshkosh attended by 9,000 men from cities in the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church. Professor Stachle of Oshkosh attended by 9,000 men from cities in the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church.

Thirteen railroad coaches carried members of the Holy Name societies from Appleton, Little Chute, Neenah and Menasha to the rally in time for the pontifical field mass at North park at 10:30. The Rev. Paul F. Rade, D. D. bishop of the Green Bay diocese, delivered the sermon. A male choir of 50 voices from Oshkosh sang at the morning mass. Amplifiers were installed in the park so the 4,000 persons in attendance could hear.

Stevens Point was selected as the next convention city at the business meeting at 1 o'clock at St. Mary auditorium. It is planned to hold the meeting on Pentecost Sunday in 1929. The parade at 2:30 was the feature of the day. The 120th Field Artillery Band of Appleton and 12 other bands from Oshkosh, Menasha, Oshkosh, Manitowish and Green Bay took part in the procession in which 6,000 men marched.

Bishop Rhode conducted the annual review of the Holy Name units from a special reviewing stand which was erected on the lawn of the Knights of Columbus Club. Phil Grun of Milwaukee gave the address which was the concluding event of the day. His subject was "The Man Who Lives Up to the Principles of the Holy Name Society is the Highest Type of an American Citizen."

Some of the larger communities represented at the rally were Appleton, Menasha, Neenah, Shawano, Green Bay, Marinette, DePere, Oconto, Falls, Two Rivers, Manitowish and Stevens Point. Forty-five smaller communities participated in the rally.

Eastern Wisconsin Ranks High In Quality Of Fish

BY B. A. CLARIN

Wisconsin is known the country over as the state of grand fishing possibilities. And that means all species of game fish. Other states to the south and east of us have waters from which Muskellunge and bass are taken, as well as pike—in the Mississippi river Sand pike are known as "Salmon," and so spoken of in the game law books. However, the finest of all our game fishes are the various members of the trout family. To get these the fishermen must come into the northern country, and Wisconsin stands in its number of prolific streams.

I am receiving and answering more than a dozen letters each week from sportsmen all over the middle states. They ask to be directed to the right waters for successful fishing. During the last few weeks the inquiries received have related mostly to trout fishing. It is not a difficult matter to satisfy them all when it is known that we have over 9,000 miles of trout streams.

I just had a request from a gentleman connected with the Daily News of St. Paul. He wants to meet me and go trout fishing. He is an old hand at the game, one of many years experience. Here is what he says. "I have fished every stream in the western part of the state, and those north of St. Paul, in Minnesota, but the fish do not run big enough to suit me. I am coming to you to learn about the fishing of your section of the state, the eastern part, where I know the fish average much larger."

That statement means something, coming from a man of his caliber in the art of angling, and he is going to learn what we have to offer over in these parts.

Do not think there are no trout streams in the western part of our state. Witness this: In the country to the northwest of Hayward, in Sawyer-co, the country is a vast network of lakes and streams. Trout and bass streams are very numerous. Some of the most important are McKenzie Creek, Chitog, Frog Creek, Bear Brook, Little Mackay, Potato Creek, Yelkay River, Togallo River, and the Namakagh. Most of the streams we have had the pleasure of fishing and we can state without fear of being contradicted by anyone who, like ourselves, has fished both the western and the eastern waters, that they don't compare at all with our nearby streams; that is, the waters east of a line drawn from north to south through the center of the state.

I have just had reports from the upper stretches of the Peshigo river. The trout are on the rampage there apparently. Some fine catches are being made, mostly Speckled trout. I will gladly furnish directions to those places to anyone desiring to make a trip to that region. Also, I will tell them what to use as lures to get them on.

More stringent protection should be afforded these fine fish if we hope to continue to have them in anything like abundance even in the more unfrequented streams. The open season should close for Speckled trout fishing on July 31, and on Rainbow trout fishing on June 1 instead of May 1 as is now the case.

GRAND CHUTE TAKES ACTION TO ENFORCE HIGHWAY PARKING LAW

Town Board Also Adopts Ordinance Punishing Persons Found Guilty of Misconduct

Drastic action to put an end to parked automobiles on town of Grand Chute roads and immoral and low conduct of automobile parties, has been started by town officials with publication of two ordinances relating to disorderly conduct and parking of automobile on public highways. The ordinances were prepared at a meeting of the town board May 22 and become effective immediately.

The first ordinance reads in substance that any person or persons guilty of misconduct in or outside of an automobile in the town of Grand Chute shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and if convicted shall be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50 together with costs of prosecution and in default of payment shall be committed to the county jail not more than 10 days.

The other ordinance adopted is section 5.02 of the state traffic laws relating to automobiles parked on public highways. Persons found guilty under this ordinance shall be assessed not less than $5 and not more than $100 or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days or more than three months.

Because the town of Grand Chute borders the city of Appleton, the town roads are a favorite place for parking, according to August Laabs, town chairman.

The new ordinances will be enforced by peace officers of the town who probably will make it their business to patrol sections of the roads where offenders are most likely to be found. The town of Grand Chute has two such officers.

Decade Has Passed Since Cantigny And Many Changes Have Taken Place

Ten years after the Yanks launched their first big attack by capturing Cantigny on May 28, 1918, and turned the tide of the war, Herr Wilhelm Hohenzollern, the former kaiser, continues to live in quiet seclusion at his estate near Doorn, Holland, as these recent and newest pictures of him show.

On the right is the former German emperor enjoying a quiet smoke after tea with friends on his vast and beautiful estate. The police dog's name is Harro, a pet of Princess Hermine.

At the left is the former ruler at his wood pile in a far corner of the spacious grounds. He keeps fit by daily sawing and chopping.

Below is Cantigny as it looked when the Americans entered the town 10 years ago, and a scene showing how the same spot looks today. The monument in the picture on the right stands on exactly the same spot as that occupied by the devastated farmhouse on the left. In this twisted timber ruin, the only structure still standing, Americans captured several German machine gunners.

Neller and "Izzy," his real headed dummy, will put on their usual ventriloquism act. "Izzy" not only talks and sings but has perfected the Swiss yodel.

WORK UNDERWAY ON NEW CONCRETE DAM

Appleton Man Supervising Work Being Done by Government at DePere

Nelson Wightman, Appleton, is supervising the construction of a new concrete dam, at DePere, the construction of which was started this week by the government engineering department. The new dam is to replace the old wooden one.

Over 1,700 yards of clay have been dumped along the old dam, and the dredge, DePere, is doing the excavating work preparatory to sinking caissons. A coffer dam will be used while the new dam is under construction. The caissons are of concrete, reinforced with steel, and are 21 by 21 feet, and 10 feet deep. The same caissons were used during the construction of the Kaukauna dam.

The sluiceway section will be the only section built this year and 14 gates, each 20 feet long, will be installed. The spillways are to be placed at the east and west end of the gates.

Two large steel seals loaded with small buildings will be moved onto the government property for housing watermen and mechanics.

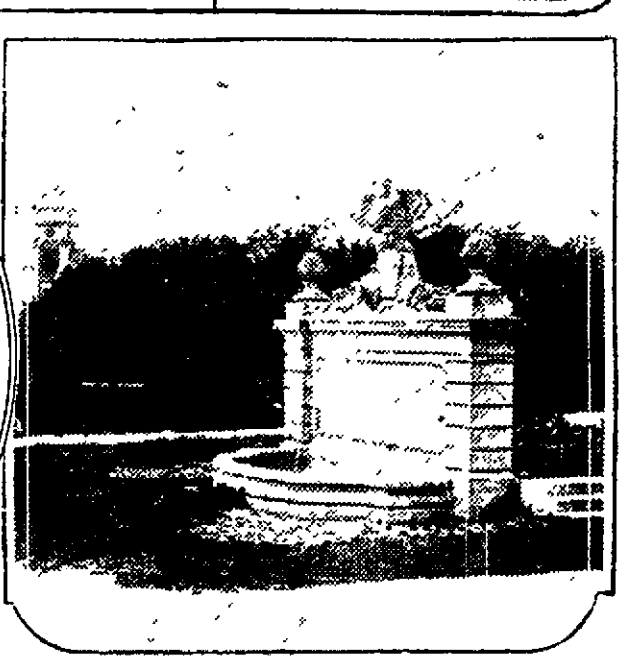

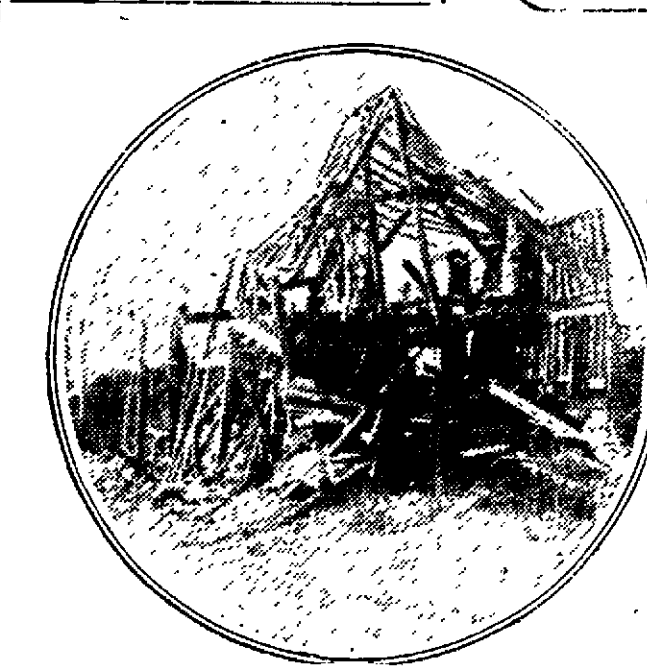

The sluice gates are being built so as to facilitate the raising and lowering of them by the lockmaster as the water level in the Fox river varies.

CHEST CLINIC SHOWS
NEED FOR OPEN AIR
CLASSES IN SCHOOL

Clinic Reveals That Only 19 Out of 165 Children Are Enjoying Good Health

Menasha—That an open air school, or at least an open air room in the Menasha school is needed was indicated by the findings of the free chest clinic held here last week. Of the 165 children examined, four were placed in the tuberculosis classification, and heart disease was diagnosed in five, with suspicious heart findings in two others, according to the detailed report from the association headquarters in Milwaukee.

Immediate sanatorium cure was recommended for one of the children and it was advised that five of the children be placed in an open air school and that four other be sent to a sanatorium. The other outstanding feature of the clinic was the fact that of the 165 children examined, 123 had never been successfully vaccinated, many of them not at all.

Only 19 of the children were found in such good condition that they were scored as needing no further attention, while 93 were referred to the family physician or dentist for correction of physical defects. Other non-tuberculous conditions noted were: Decayed and neglected teeth, 35; diseased tonsils, 33; child goiter, 4; functional heart, 9; pulmonary infection, 9; chronic bronchitis, 2; acute bronchitis, 1. Sixty-nine of the children were found to be more than 10 percent underweight.

Menasha—More than 25 Menasha men spent Saturday fishing at Winnebago. They nearly cleaned local dealers out of minnows before they started, notwithstanding they were prepared for a rush over the weekend. MENASHA FISHERMEN
EXPECT BIG CATCHES
OF FROGS THIS YEAR

Menasha—The open season for frogs was ushered in May 1, but comparatively few have been caught so far this season, on account of cold weather, according to local fishermen. The campaign will open with the arrival of hot weather when thousands of dozens will be caught in the rivers and lakes of this part of the state and shipped to hotels and restaurants of large cities. Wet summers are always indicative of a good season for the fishermen as the frogs do not have a chance to dry up and all that is needed is hot weather to develop the young. While the season has not fully started, occasional good catches have been reported. Frogs always bring good returns for the fishermen and the demand is always greater than the supply.

Menasha—The opening banquet of the Twin City Business and Professional Women's club at Hotel Menasha Saturday evening proved a big success. Eighty-five guests were present, 26 of whom were from Appleton. Miss Florence Haupt, accompanied by Mrs. Annette Matheson, led the singing of "America the Beautiful" preceding the banquet. Miss Lynda Hellenbeck, president of the organization, gave an address of welcome and an impressive reading of the "Club Woman's Collect" by Mary Stuart. Miss Hellenbeck introduced Miss Leora Westlake, past president, who told of the ideals and purposes of the National State Federation.

Miss Katherine Noyen, president of the Appleton club, outlined the benefits that they, as a club, had derived from their local association and federation and gave a most interesting resume of their last year's program and accomplishments.

Miss Sparks of Neenah, corresponding secretary, made a most cordial greeting of the Appleton girls and bespoke the spirit of fellowship for the girls from Neenah to their Menasha sisters. Miss Edna Robertson, vice president, responded from Menasha, and in behalf of the president, she expressed appreciation of the club for the work done by the committee on arrangements in making the first meeting and banquet possible, and the success it proved to be.

It was decided to have meetings alternate once a month, Neenah girls being hostesses to Menasha girls at Neenah and Menasha girls to Neenah girls at Menasha. An educational program would be carried out with a sufficient element of entertainment being provided. It was stressed that the program of the club would depend upon the wishes of the members, with the object and slogan of the national organization ever in mind. "Better business women for a better business world." The program closed with a humorous playlet, "Organizing a Club," presented by members of the Appleton club.

TWIN CITY BASEBALL TEAM LOSES TO KAWS

Visitors Romp Away With Sunday's Game at Menasha by 11 to 4 Score

Menasha—The Menasha-Neenah team was forced down still further in the league standings when Kaukauna romped off with Sunday's game at Recreation park by a score of 11 to 4. Kaukauna turned the trick by mixing 17 hits with 2 walks, 2 men being hit by pitched balls, and 6 local errors. Neenah-Menasha collected 8 hits, 3 walks and 2 Kaw errors.

Lewandowski started on the mound for the locals, getting into hot water immediately by hitting Cramer and giving Wenzel a free pass to first, but the infield came to the rescue with a double play and no damage was done. Abrett did the pitching for Kaukauna. After walking Omar, Wenzel struck out Lewandowski, singled but was forced by Herzog; and Zenefski struck out, leaving two mates on the paths.

Kaukauna scored in the second inning when Sager was safe on Zenefski's error; Moore beat out a bunt, and Sager scored when Kilgas singled. Wenzel struck out Moore also being put out on the play at third. The Menasha bats were quiet in the second with the exception of Weisgerber's single. After being held scoreless in the third, Kaukauna broke loose in the fourth; Kilgas reached first on Krull's error; Wenzel hit and beat the throw to first. Abrett went out, but Cramer was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Wenzel drove in his three mates with a double, scoring a moment later on Smith's hit, netting four runs on three hits.

Menasha went scoreless in the fourth. Beach getting a single but remained on the paths. Kaukauna kept up its batting rampage in the fifth. Moore singled, scoring Moore; Cramer also singled; Abrett then scored on Wenzel's single; See Smith walked, filling the bases, but Gerz was tossed out. Kaukauna now held a 7 to 0 lead.

The home crew came to life in the fifth when Slumski, Krull and Omar singled in order, Slumski scoring when Weisgerber reached first on an error. Herzog then threw the ball into the bleachers trying to complete a double play. Krull and Omar scoring. Sager reached first in the sixth when Slumski let the third strike get away from him, and stole second. Kilgas then raised an appreciation of the long home run. Another Kaukauna run went over in the seventh when Wenzel reached first on Krull's error, scoring on a single by Gerz.

Menasha duplicated the feat in their half. Lewandowski got on when the ball bounced out of Smith's hands in center field, scoring when Herzog hit one against the right field fence. Kaukauna put on their last tally in the ninth on an error by Krull and a single by Gerz. The game was completed by a double play.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

MR. WORK'S POINTERS
ON AUCTION BRIDGE

Continuing the subject of initial suit bids, there are one or two general points that it is important should be clearly understood. In the first place, there is no difference between the suits when an initial bid of one is being considered. An initial one-bid which would be sound in one suit would be sound with the same cards in any other suit. It would not be true, for example, to say, "This is a sound Heart bid, but if the Hearts and Diamonds were transposed it would be an unsafe Diamond bid." The cards which justify a one-bid in Spades would justify the bid equally if the suit were Hearts Diamonds or Clubs; and similar comment would apply to a one-bid of Clubs, Hearts or Diamonds as compared with any other suit. The beginner should fix this principle firmly in his mind because there is a more or less prevalent idea that Minor suit-bids of one may be made with less length than Major suit bids of one; that they are No Trump invitations and that therefore the suit with which they are made need not contain more than two or three cards. This dangerous practice is not now conventional with expert players, although a few years ago it had some following.

The next general point to consider is that there are many who think a score toward game justifies a declaration with less than conventional strength. This is most unsound. The main purpose of an initial one-bid is to give the partner information, by showing as fully as possible the character of the bidder's holding. If a player holding A-Q-x-x in Spades and no side strength, should feel that a Spade was justified because he had a score of 12 and was 2 tricks nearer game than he would be with a love score, the partner could not tell whether it was a bid made merely because of the score, or a bid that would have been justified without a score. The question of whether the side of the bidder has a score toward game should not affect an initial declaration of one. If it is proper to make a one-bid at a love score, it is equally proper to make the same bid with the same cards if the bidder's side were 10 or 20 toward game. Conversely, having a score does not make a bid sound which would be unsound at a love score.

FISHERMEN REPORT BIG HAULS OF CARP

"Undesirables" Are Shipped East Where They Find a Ready Market

Hundreds of fish, so many that the nets were pulled up with difficulty by six fishermen, were taken from the lower Fox river, back of the Appleton Toy and Furniture company buildings Friday afternoon.

Commercial fishermen are continuing to pull out the "fresh-water salmon" to be shipped east where they are relished for their white meat. To Fox river valley people, however, they are nothing but the plain old sheephead and carp and can be heard flopping around in the mud along the shore, day and night.

Not only are carp and sheephead pulled out, but plenty of white bass and pickerel, along with a big green dog fish or so. The fish are sorted and game fish thrown back into the river. The fishermen are known as "commercial" because they are paid by the state to clean out undesirable fish. They set their nets in the shallow waters of the Fox, and a day or two later, when pulled up, they are filled with carp and sheephead.

TOURISTS WRITE HERE FOR SCENIC INFORMATION

Assurance that the 1928 "crop" of tourists coming through Appleton will equal that of other years is given by the numerous requests for information being received by the chamber of commerce.

Requests for information have been received from points as far away as Arizona on the west and Tennessee on the east and all of the writers signified their intentions of visiting this state during the summer.

Tourists this year differ from the past in that they seek points of interest which may be viewed instead of conditions of the roads.

DAIRYMEN MUST NOT USE OTHER'S BOTTLES

Appleton milk dealers who take milk bottles belonging to other dairymen must cease that practice or face prosecution, according to a letter of warning being sent out by Dairy and Food Commissioner C. J. Kremer.

The section of the law covering that practice provides that there shall be no false or misleading statement upon packages of food. When one milk dealer uses bottles that state "property of an filled by," then follows the name of another dealer, that is a false and misleading statement. Also when the bottle states that the milk is pasteurized when it is raw milk, it is a false and misleading statement.

Dormitory Grocery Bill Sound Like A War Debt

Lawrence college students who live in the dormitories may not live on the fat of the land but they don't starve either. If the Lawrence co-eds keep their girlish figures it is in spite of, not because of, the cuisine, and probably the only reason the men don't have middle buttons on their waistcoats that project at forty-five degree angles is because of track, tennis, and dancing parties.

Many a woman who feels overburdened with her life work of cooking for one man would feel heartened after a meeting with the Brookway, men's dormitory, matrons, who plan and cook the meals for one hundred and ten boys. At this dormitory from 40 to 45 quarts of milk and four quarts of cream are consumed daily. Twenty-four loaves of bread means 75 pounds of butter a week. 300 portions of hot breads are baked for breakfast every morning. During a representative month of $250 worth of beef, veal, pork, ham and sausage, and $50 worth of fruit is consumed. In the girls' dormitories, Ormsby and Sage, more than 120 quarts of milk and twenty quarts of cream are used daily. The girls eat about 150 pounds of butter a week, and during the month consume approximately $200 worth of fruit and $75 worth of meat.

All the dormitories use about 125 bushels of potatoes a month. In the course of a year that is about 35 dozen gallons of canned peas, 35 dozen of canned corn, 45 dozen of canned beans, 40 dozen of canned peaches, 25 dozen of canned pears, 50 dozen gallons of canned pineapple, 60 dozen gallons of various canned berries and 20 dozen gallons of preserves.

The fact that the girls' dormitories consume more than Brookway does not mean that the old-fashioned girl who "eats like a bird" is an absolute anachronism at the college. Only a small portion of Lawrence men stay at the men's dormitory since many make their homes at the fraternity houses.

For the May Day breakfast that was held on the hill overlooking the river behind the home of Dr. H. M. Watson, the list of provisions proves that although the atmosphere may have been fairylike and ethereal, the appetites were not. Two crates of strawberries, nine boxes of cereals, 450 rolls, ten pounds of bacon, five pounds of coffee, twelve quarts of cream, ten quarts of milk, ten pounds of sugar and five pounds of butter were used.

Many Favorable Comments on Program for Rural School Commencement

Many favorable comments are being made throughout the county on the proposed commencement exercises for graduates of rural schools of Outagamie co., according to A. G. Meating, superintendent of schools.

Under the plan, proposed by Mr. Meating, the entire graduating class will be taken via special train by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, to Madison on Saturday, June 2, where the exercises will be held in the state capitol building. Addresses will be given by Fred R. Zimmerman, governor, and John N. Callahan, state superintendent of schools.

Mr. Meating said from past indications the crowd would exceed 500. There are approximately 200 graduates and the number of parents, teachers and friends planning to make the trip with the students, will well the total to close to 500.

Questionnaires sent out this week by Mr. Meating to all members of graduating classes, teachers and members of school boards in each district, will determine how many will make the trip. Some of the questionnaires have already been returned.

When the students get to Madison they will be taken on sightseeing trips through the state university, the zoo, the museum, capitol buildings and observatory. They will have lunch on the train. The special train will leave Appleton at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and return at 8:30 Saturday evening.

MORE VETOES EXPECTED

Congress has passed the Muscle Shoals bill and the house has passed the Boulder Dam bill. It looks as though the latter might go through the senate, despite a filibuster. A filibuster against the Muscle Shoals measure was finally broken. These two measures if enacted would cost the government $170,000,000 to start with. It is estimated that the ultimate cost within the next thirty years would exceed $500,000,000, not including $140,000,000 already expended on the Muscle Shoals plants.

It is said at Washington President Coolidge is certain to veto the Muscle Shoals bill, which provides for government operation of the power and nitrate plants. The administration has stood out firmly for private operation of this property. Government operation is attractive in theory, but we have to face the probability of its demoralization and excessive cost as the inevitable toll of politics. Moreover, a congress which will pass the Boulder Dam projects can hardly be trusted to enact any legislation. It is a mark either of incompetency or of untrustworthiness. Fortunately we have in the White house a man who is not afraid to use the veto, and who has no political ambition that must be watered by compromises with unscrupulous politicians.

AFTER AMERICAN TOURISTS

Canadians sometimes express fear of being gobbled up by American capital. But they worry less and less about that, as American tourists throng in and sprinkle their money through all the channels of Dominion trade. There is no peril in that money—nothing but prosperity and a good effect on the trade balance and exchange rate. The sum spent in that fashion last year amounted to $260,000,000. This year it will probably reach $300,000,000. That business is drawn partly by the liquor differential between the two countries, more by the attraction of the country as a vacation playground, and still more by the friendliness of the people and the intelligent efforts of Canadian officials and business men to attract tourists.

Mexico is taking a leaf out of Canada's book, and will be getting her own proper quota of tourist traffic and trade as soon as she improves her roads a little more, and make her country safe to the visitors. She is making a special point of welcoming Americans, after a long tourist moratorium. She offers a reasonable guarantee against being held up by bandits, and a six months' permit for the tourist's car without any expense or red tape. That sort of trip will look more attractive several months from now. Canada and Mexico should naturally divide the winter and summer seasons, among such Americans as feel the need of going away from home for their fun in spite of all the varied attractions their own land affords.

MORGAN SHOWS THE WAY

J. P. Morgan, biggest banker in America, was sworn in the other day as member of a grand jury at Mineola, L. I. It was not a special grand jury, either, but an ordinary one called in the usual way for routine work.

Mr. Morgan had cut short a European trip in order to get back for the express purpose of sitting on that jury. Not that jury-sitting is his favorite sport. He prefers yachting. But when the officials offered to let him off, he demurred, and said he was willing to serve, because such service was the duty of every citizen.

If Morgan, with his range of interests and stress of work and personal importance, can do that, a lot of other able and busy people might find the time. He points the way to one of the things most needed in American courts today.

SENATE UPHOLDS COOLIDGE

The senate by its refusal to pass the McNary-Haugen relief bill over Mr. Coolidge's veto has sustained the president. A conspicuous example of courage in the vote, to which attention ought to be directed, was that of Senator Curtis, who changed his support of the measure to support of the president. Mr. Curtis is from Kansas, one of the great grain states, and is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Evidently he is not so afraid of farmer resentment over the failure of this legislation as some of the more timid souls. Furthermore, we should keep in mind the fact that in the attempt to over-ride the president's veto the affirmative was made up of twenty-nine Democrats and only twenty Republicans, and the negative nineteen Republicans and twelve Democrats, showing a party cleavage that suggests a maximum of politics and a minimum of conviction. Perhaps the president has not come off so badly in the matter as his enemies and assailants have tried to make out.

A NEW CROP OF GRADUATES

The commencement season approaches again. Throughout the country, from many a school and church and town hall platform, eager-eyed boys and girls are declaiming their theories about saving democracy, their philosophy of life—which may change considerably in the next ten or fifteen years—and their notions about culture or a sense of humor or art.

Americans have a habit of laughing at things that move them deeply—even while remaining fundamentally respectful. Therefore these young graduates, with the world before them and just a little harder nut to crack than they realize, are the subject of many a joke and many a humorous cartoon. So, too, are matrimony and other matters of quite serious import.

To any one who sees more than the youthful exuberance of the graduating boys and girls, and more than the amusement or cynicism of the elders who feel so superior, this annual graduation season is rather a lovely thing. What a dull and weary world it would be if it were not for this stream of youngsters with their silly crushes and their high ideals and hopes, with their irresponsible ways and their very real desire to serve and to play a worthy part in life.

Thank goodness we have graduation seasons now, and then to bring them to our attention and to take our minds off less pleasant affairs.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

In a town which was enjoying a nice little school row, a woman who seldom did any public or club work of any kind found herself drawn into various activities for the sake of bettering education. When the flurry was over she was left with some curious reflections upon the reserves of energy which seemed to be stored up in the village. Citizens once aroused not only went to meetings of the school board but telephoned voluminously, held committee meetings, gave money and time in large measure. These, too, were all busy people. Many were women doing almost all of their own housework, men who worked in the neighboring city and took long journeys to and from work. Yet they not only rallied to the good cause but seemed to enjoy doing the things required of them.

Nothing but civic apathy was responsible for the bad condition of things when the trouble came to a head. And with the one big skirmish over, apathy bade fair to descend upon the village again. Why cannot some of these forces be kept in motion continuously for the public good? There are plenty of things to be done in every little city as well as in every big one.

A khaki Campbell duck, owned by H. S. Maxwell of Leiston, Suffolk, has achieved a record of 357 eggs in 365 days.

A calf killed at Gosford, New South Wales, had in its mouth a pair of gold sleeve-links, a gold collar-stud, and a gold safety pin.

AN OUTLINE OF HYGIENE

Diseases We Can't Explain

Large statistics such as the mortality tables of the United States Bureau indicate that the death rate from diseases that we understand has steadily declined in the last 30 or 40 years, the death rate from diseases we do not understand has apparently increased in the same period. Chief among the diseases we understand are pneumonia, tuberculosis and all the familiar epidemic or infectious diseases. The diseases we do not know so much about are cancer, on the one hand, and cardiovascular degeneration on the other hand. This term cardiovascular degeneration is a sorry one originally conceived, perhaps, to help the doctors conceal their ignorance for a while. A doctor gets the habit of springing a frightful or at least an imposing medical term on the patient when in a quandary as to the diagnosis. The term keeps the patient amused and checks his curiosity or his anxiety until the doctor can get a line on what really is the matter. Do you ever envisage a "bad cold" in that light? Or run down condition? Or overwork? Don't do it if the victim is to share your thoughts, but try to come to some time when some personage falls ill in the newspaper. All the doctors seem to afflict the doctors on mass as well as in medicine. So they do on a tacit agreement to apply this lugubrious term, cardiovascular degeneration, or CVD for short, to hardening of the arteries, slow heart muscle failure (chronic myocarditis), chronic Bright's disease, apoplexy, and the various odds and ends of more or less mysterious disease such as angina pectoris and arteriosclerosis. The cardio-vascular term is a very old one—it means heart and artery; but the degeneration part is obsolete, misleading and discouraging to the medical student who would shake off the forbidding influence of pessimism and strive to learn something about these diseases of mature and elderly people. So let us discard the "degeneration" label because it is only a pathological error, and call this group of diseases just cardiovascular disease.

One of the favorite pastimes of physicians is orating or listening to orations about the marvelous progress medicine has made in the past decade or number of generations or years. This advancement is so great that the prevention or cure of diseases we understand. In regard to the diseases we don't understand, there is no progress. We can't prevent them, we can't cure them, we can't even understand them. We can only hope that by a study of medical literature, in other words, we know no more now about the nature, cause, prevention or treatment of chronic nephritis (Bright's disease), or apoplexy (cerebral hemorrhage, stroke or paralysis) or arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), or myocarditis (gradual impairment of efficiency of the heart) than we knew 30 years ago, though it is only fair to say that 30 years of practice has naturally given us a degree of gibberish or fluency in telling the laity the little we know about the diseases and our motley speculations concerning them.

From a study of statistics it would seem that cancer on the one hand, and cardiovascular disease on the other, are increasing in prevalence or frequency from year to year, but in my judgment this is a false deduction and I believe the apparent increase of these diseases is fully accounted for by the more accurate diagnosis of our times and the greater reluctance of modern health authorities to accept archaic or indefinite terms like "break-down," "exhaustion from overwork," or "nervousness" as the cause of death, in the physician's certificate. Unquestionably many cases of cardiovascular disease were disguised under such terms in the morbidity and mortality statistics of earlier generations.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anonymous correspondents please note. I have always kept inviolate the confidence of correspondents, as I would the communications of a patient in the consulting room. Therefore there is no good reason why anyone who seeks advice, information or reassurance should not sign his letter. Besides, there are no questions that I cannot discuss in print; many more that I should not deal with promiscuously; and some that I will not answer in any case.

Raw Oats
Is there any harm done to one's health by eating raw rolled oats? I eat sometimes as much as a half pound of them at a time. Have missed a family of six children and I enjoy excellent health, except feeling tired all the time and a sallow complexion. (Mrs. S. M. A.)
Answer—It is harmless, and I believe every one, child or adult, should eat some raw vegetable or cereal as well as raw fruit every day, as a health habit. Probably your first feeling and sallowness are due to any abuse of confinement in the foul air and now that winter is over, I should endeavor to get your ultraviolet ray treatment in the fresh sunshine. Suit your own taste—one person prefers to munch raw potato, another raw carrot, another raw cucumber, another raw cabbage. A quart of oats probably yields 300 calories—a pound yields 1,500 calories. So you should consider your oats ration equivalent to a full meal in nutrient.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

"THE CLOSED GARDEN"

Last September, on a very hot day in Florida, I complained to a native of the lack of shade trees, arguing that the much-touted palms are almost worse than useless as a protection against the sun. The ready answer of the native was a fault in the climate was forthcoming. "The lack of shade is one of the best things about Florida. Too much shade breeds vermin and mould and is generally unwholesome."

Doubleless the native was correct. In a swampy country, the antiseptic heat and light of the sun is needed to keep out the vermin and the pestilence. The sun must be able to get at every spot or there is likely to be trouble.

Julian Green had some such thing in mind when he wrote "The Closed Garden," the book that was selected by a Book-of-the-Month club and that has had a great popular success. It is having a big run just now and it deserves all the praise that has been bestowed upon it. It is one of the finest novels I have read in many weeks and it does not seem to have lost much by translation. Written in French by an American it is now available in the American own language and it is getting a warm reception in America.

The garden that remains closed breeds mould and mildew. It becomes the haunt of bats and vermin. It breeds all sorts of noxious creatures. It is health-destroying. Its flowers are choked and in their place come weeds and all sorts of insect-infested plants. The sun and the free air must be able to get at a garden if it is to remain a garden.

That is the imagery under which the garden of the heart and mind of a young girl is described. She lives in a village in France with a very narrow-minded father and a dying sister. She is eighteen and full of life and vigor. Her heart is a garden capable of growing all sorts of beautiful flowers. Under proper conditions she might have grown up into a whole-some woman and mother.

But the narrow-minded father insists on doing her thinking. He directs her every movement. Under the guise of protecting her against the dangers of the world, he keeps her shut up in his narrow house and what is far more serious, he keeps her mind closed. The dying sister helps toward this same end.

The young girls never meets anyone of her own age. There is no wholesome companionship with boys and girls of her own kind. She spends her days of brooding, the garden of her mind becoming the breeding place of all sorts of unwholesome thoughts. Gradually she develops what is best expressed in a slang phrase, "bats in her belfry"—expressive because it fits in so well with the imagery of the book. The closed garden of her mind develops bats.

She falls in love with a man twice her age and whom she has never met. She develops an obsession about watching his house from an upper window. Gradually she goes mildly insane on the subject.

Then half through an accident she throws her father downstairs and he is killed. After that the garden that has been shut by the old man becomes more tightly shut still. The unwholesome work of illusion has begun and from now on the girl is her own jailer, or a much more severe jailer even than was the tyrannical father.

She goes from bad to worse and it leads in the end to a hopeless insanity. Keeping the garden closed has done its terrible work and the father who has been killed by the girl is in reality his daughter's murderer. He killed her mind and her soul through his mistaken discipline.

The story of the advance of insanity is told with a power that is astonishing. Julian Green is under 30 but he knows more about it than many virtues twice his age. "The Closed Garden" is a powerful novel by a genuine artist.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

WEATHER CHANGES BEAR

RELATION TO DISEASE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, The Health Magazine

Almost everyone is familiar with people who are human barometers. By the aches and pains in their joints they can tell whether or not a change in the weather is coming.

For many years the relationships of changes in the weather to disease have attracted the attention of medical and other scientists. In a recent issue Sir Leonard Rogers, noted for his investigation of tropical diseases, points out that the influence of climate on the incidence of disease has not even yet attracted the attention that it deserves.

He has spent much of his time in India where for many years the government has kept adequate records of rain fall, humidity and temperature.

PNEUMONIA RATE

He traces a definite relationship between pneumonia and climate, finding a definitely lower rate of pneumonia in the warmer areas with infrequent changes in temperature. His explanation is simple.

The poor Indian lives in a one-room hut and goes out in the open; he allows his cotton loin cloth to dry on him. The dryness of the atmosphere leads to rapid evaporation with cooling, all of the conditions being thus most favorable to producing chills.

Most people carry with them constantly the germs of cold, pneumonia and of influenza in their throats. The development of these diseases is favored by the lowering of the patient's resistance by chills.

Sir Leonard Rogers points out that much the same thing happens in the dry climate of Egypt where persons driving out in the heat of the day to see the pyramids and other objects of interest are liable to get chills when returning after sunset, at the time of the rapid fall in the temperature. Under such circumstances pneumonia is common.

CHOLERA FATALITIES

In India cholera carries off an average of 275,000 persons a year, after an illness lasting only a few hours. Sir Leonard Rogers points out that the conditions are much more favorable in some areas for extensive cholera epidemics than in others.

He feels that he can forecast cholera epidemics according to previous deficient rain fall, favorable absolute humidity, and the occurrence of large pilgrimages involving the passage of huge crowds through the areas in which cholera is constantly present. The religious pilgrimages of India serve to spread disease as do large gatherings. The menace arises from the fact that the pilgrims pass through areas where severe infectious disease is common, pick up the infection and spread it throughout the country.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Modern invention has put an end to the Manhattan job to which I had looked forward for my declining years.

Insofar as it had a title, this grandest of possible jobs was known as "cloud watcher." It consisted of sitting on top of a skyscraper, telescope in hand, and tipping off the electric power company when particularly heavy clouds, or storms, were sighted. Since the slightest change in light means that tens of thousands of offices will suddenly switch on their lights, the power plant must be prepared to meet the emergencies. When the city is plunged into darkness by a sudden storm or by the appearance of overhanging clouds, the strain on the power production is considerable. And so this lone roof-top vigil went on day upon day. What an opportunity to turn philosopher or poet in one's old age! With the roaring city far below, with the hectic rounds of a columnist's life far behind, what a happier task than to sit philosophically contemplating the approaching clouds—even as the country lad upon his hillside!

Little mechanical device now tells of the clouds, and a worker has merely to squint at a fluctuating arrow.

However, as the amount of coal smoke grows gradually thicker and blacker, I am told another skyline watchman may be put on the job. He will merely have to signal the approach of the particularly heavy smoke clouds. This failing, there still remains that idyllic and incongruous task of being shepherd to the Central Park flock of sheep.

When the last wheeze is coming from an asthmatic merry-go-round, when sunset is sending the first long shadows over the rooftops of bench warmers and neckers—then the shepherd hears the riot of taxicab honks from the park driveways and somehow gets his flocks home safely, in spite of the crowded crossings, the squeaking path and the traffic cops.

Fifteen thousand girls from every quarter of the globe try to catch the gate of Flo Ziegfeld each season, so it is told. And 800 is the maximum number he is likely to select, even in a busy season. What of the other 14,200?

Ziegfeld makes his famous selections in a bare-looking rehearsal hall. An extraordinary number of applicants are accompanied by their mothers. Scores of these have the notion that, thanks to the strange yarns that go about their daughters will be made to strip for inspection. As a matter of fact, nothing of the sort happens in any legitimate production concern. When the candidates have been reduced to the necessary quota they are asked to come back and appear in bathing suits.

Ziegfeld, by the way, is the son of a prominent figure in the world of music—the late head of the Chicago College of Music. Few recall by the way, that his first wife was the famous Anna Held, whose figure was considered the "ne plus ultra" of grandpa's day.

stated that the entire last dash from Cape Columbia to the Pole and back consisted of 43 marches, each march averaging 15 miles.

Q. Why isn't Kentucky represented in Statuary Hall? A. S.

A. It is the privilege of every State in the Union to be represented in Statuary Hall, United States Capitol Building, by two statues. At the present time only 25 States have placed statues there. Kentucky has not yet exercised her privilege.

Q. When did Lindbergh's father die? H. H.

A. His death occurred May 25, 1927.

Q. What tree is called American yew? S. E. W.

A. The ground-hemlock is so known. Q. What kind of flowers will grow where the soil is poor? J. L.

A. Such flowers as the following are suggested: Love-lies-bleeding, prince's feather, Joseph's coat, Camellia, geranium, geranium, sweet alyssum, garden balsam and calliopsis.

Q. What were the O. P. Riots? W. N.

A. The "old-price riots" took place at Covent Garden Theatre, London, in 1809. The cost of the new theatre then just built was so great that the proprietors raised the price of admission, and the public resolved to resist.

Q. Which horse of Richard III was his favorite? G. C.

A. "White" was so regarded.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
The summer she is 16, SALLY FORD is "furnish out" to CLEM CARSON, and leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four. At the farm she meets DAVID NASH, athlete and university student, working there during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about their friendship, David strikes him a terrific blow and not knowing then whether the man is dead or alive, Sally and David flee.

They join a carnival, David as clerk and Sally in a side show disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.
NITA, the Hula dancer becomes infatuated with David and threatens Sally with exposure to the police for the Carson affair if she doesn't keep "hands off" David. Sally leaves they are going next to Capital City where she spent so many years in the orphanage. She tells David they must run away. David promises to meet her that night after the train is loaded to talk things over with her. They stroll to a clump of trees and sit down to talk. David takes her in his arms and for the first time they confess their love for each other. She tells him the news of her mother which MRS. BYBEE uncovers for her in Stanton. The woman who had left her at the Home was not her mother, according to Mrs. Bybee's information, but was a maid hired to take the baby from the mother in New York and disappear.

As they sit there, they are startled to hear Nita's voice in the darkness somewhere near them. "Steve—I'm warning you. If you doubt me I'll cut your heart out." Fifty-fifty—

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV
When Sally was awakened soon after dawn the next morning—Wednesday—by the shouts and songs of the "white hopes" unloading the carnival on the outskirts of the Capital City, the question which had insisted on worming its way through the heavenly joy of knowing that David loved her sprang instantly to the foreground of her mind; who was "Steve" with whom Nita had quarreled and bargained in the dark last night?

Sally and David had met or had had pointed out to them nearly every member of the show troupe, and there was no Steven among them. Of course Steve might be one of the roughneck white rousabouts. But a star performer, such as Nita, considered herself, would hardly consort with such a man. The two classes—simply did not mix, except in rare instances. David of course was different. Everyone connected with the carnival knew that he was a university student, working in the kitchen with Buck only because he was hiding from the police.

Then the thought of David dismissed Nita and her threats and her Steve. She crawled out of her berth, scurried to the women's dressing room and hastily applied her show-up makeup. Pop Bybee had summoned her to the privilege car on her return from her momentous walk with David the night before to caution her not to appear in Capital City, even in the dress or cook tent, without her "Princess Lalla" complexion, which she was to apply with exceeding care so that the disguise might be impenetrable.

Because the carnival lot selected by the "Kiddler," Pop Bybee's advance man and "fixer," was in the heart of the city, and the railroad spur allotted to the show train on the outskirts of the city, would be abandoned by the carnival performers and employees, only Pop and Mrs. Bybee continuing to occupy their drawing room in one of the Pullmans. Sally, being told the arrangements, suspected that they stayed with the train to guard the safe under the green plush seat, the existence of which was known only to Sally. Mrs. Bybee took little interest in the carnival itself, caring only for the heaviness of the canvas money bags, which were brought to her at the end of each day's business.

There was no glow of pride, no sense of home-coming as she trudged through the almost deserted streets, but every time she passed a policeman idly swinging his "billy" on a street corner she thanked Pop Bybee in her heart that he had cautioned her to don her disguise. For beyond a casually interested glance at her brown face and hands and her long, swinging braids of fine, lustrous black hair, the law did not seem to find her worthy of attention—certainly not of their official notice.

If only David could pass that cordon successfully. Probably he had gone to the carnival grounds. But Pop Bybee, true to his promise to protect the boy, had decreed that he and himself and Mrs. Bybee, remaining should become private chef and waiter, coping up all day in the privilege car of the show train.

Poor David! Dear David! Her loneliness, for his magnificent body caged in a hot box of a kitchen, when it had been so gloriously free in fragrant, sun-kissed fields before she had met him.

Why, he might almost as well be in jail! And he had done nothing but protect a girl alone in the world from the cruel revenge of a man who had promised the state to treat her as his own daughter.

But even though her heart throbbed with pain for David she could not be wholly sad, for he loved her, wanted to marry her, would even now be married to her if she had let him give up his ambitions for her.

By the time she had finished breakfast in the cook tent the carnival was nearly ready for business. Even the Ferris wheel's glittering immensity was flung toward the sky, the basket seats hanging motionless in the still, hot air. Banners advertising real and spurious scarred booths, endowing them with glamor: "Bybee's Folles straight from Ziegfield's Folles in New York—Six reasons why men leave home!" "Beautiful Babe, the Fattest Girl in the World! 220 pounds of rosy, cuddly girl flesh!" "The Palace of Wonders—Greatest Aggregation of Freaks in the World: also Princess Lalla, from Constantinople, crystal-gazer escaped member of the Sultan's Harem: Sees all—knows all—Fate!"

Sally wandered along the midway, waving a small brown hand to Eddie Cobb, who was setting up his gambling wheel and gaudily dressed Kewpie dolls; exchanged predictions as to the day's business with two or three good-natured concessionaires; won a gold-toothed smile from the homely-haired girl who sold tickets for the tin rabbit races.

But she soon discovered that she was restless and lonely. The carnival had no glamor in these early hours. Without the crowds there was no glamor; the crowds themselves though they did not suspect it, furnished the glamor with their naive credulity, their laughter, their free and easy spending, their susceptibility as a relief from the monotony of their lives, to the very spirit of carnival for which this dragged old hound of a show was named.

"The kids would love it," Sally remembered suddenly, seeing in a painfully bright flash of memory the old, wistful little faces of Betsy and Thelma and Clara and all the other orphans who had until so recently—though it seemed years ago—been her only friends and playmates.

"I wonder if Eloise Durant is terribly unhappy, or if she has found some other 'big girl' to pet her. I wonder if Betsy and Thelma and Clara miss my play-acting."

She smiled at the picture of herself draped in a sheet and crowning with her own braids—an ermine cloak and a crown of gold adorning a queen. "If they could see me now! Play-acting all the time, all dressed up in purple satin trousers and a green satin jacket all glittery with gold braid! What I had lots of money, so I could send them all tickets to come to the carnival," her thoughts ran on, as homesickness for the place she had hoped never to see again rose up, treacherous and unwelcome, to dim her joy in the glorious miracle of David's love.

"I suppose," she confessed forlornly, "that Mrs. Stone is the only mother I'll ever know. I wish I'd always been good, so she wouldn't believe the awful things Clem Carson said about me. She thinks I'm bad now—like my mother. I wonder," she was startled, her face flushing hotly under the brown powder, "if I am crazy to have David kiss me, and— and he had to ask me not to. Maybe David is afraid I'm bad too, and will make him bad."

The thought was unbearable. She would fly to David, to search his gold-decked hazel eyes again, to see if he had lost any of his "respect" for her. But she wouldn't kiss him! She'd bite her tongue out first! She was going to be good, good, prove to herself and David and all the world that "it" wasn't in her blood.

But all day, as the crowds gathered and money clinked merrily as it fell into cash boxes, she longed for David, lived over every kiss he had given her, from the brushing of his lips against the tip of her short nose to that dizzying wedding of lips when their love had been confessed in the moonlight.

And because she was bemused with romance, thrilling with her own awakening to love, she made an almost riotous success of her crystal-gazing the next day of the carnival in Capital City. Girls laughed shyly and cuddled against their sweethearts, provocatively as they left the Palace of Wonders, determined to make

"Princess Lalla's" enchanting prophecies come true.

And she was so seductively beautiful herself, sparkling with love as she was, that three or four unaccompanied young men, seeking knowledge of past, present and future, suggested that she fulfill her own prophecies of a "so beautiful brunette," until, embarrassed though flattered, she took refuge in assuming that all gentlemen prefer blondes.

She did not see David that night after the carnival had shut up shop, for he could not leave the show train and only male performers, barkers and concessionaires were permitted to hang around the train. Sally understood from the midst, "Bitty Sinc," that a nightly poker game attracted the men to the privilege car and that first-lighting and even gun-play was no uncommon break in the monotony.

Pop Bybee, genial until he heard the rattle of poker chips, was the host; the winner's rule, many a performer's salary finding its way back into the stationer's safe within a few hours after Mrs. Bybee had reluctantly handed it over.

By Thursday afternoon Sally's confidence in the efficacy of her disguise had mounted noticeably high. The policeman who strode grandly through the tents, proud of not having to pay for their fun, accorded her admiration or goodnatured skepticism but no suspicion.

The city papers had apparently lost interest in the hunt for David Nash, university student, and farm hand, wanted for assault with intent to kill and for moral delinquency, and in state and juvenile paragon of the youthful would-be murderer, as the papers had previously described them.

At least there were no references in the case in either Wednesday's or Thursday's papers, and Sally's heart was light with gratitude to David and Pop Bybee for having persuaded her to stick with the carnival. It was rather fun to be on exhibition, reading the fortunes of the very policemen who had been given her description and orders to "get" her—much more fun than fleeing along state roads at night and hiding in corn fields by day, hungry, exhausted, afraid of her shadow and of the more menacing shadow of the state reformatory.

"Hello! Hello! Bless my soul! What have we here? A real live Turkish harem beauty, as I live!"

Sally absorbed herself from her apparently absorbed gazing into the "magic crystal" and looked with wide, startled eyes at the man who had addressed her in an accent which at once marked him as an exponent of culture. She had seen pictures of men dressed like that, but she had never quite believed in their authenticity.

But her eyes did not linger long on his slim, elegant, immaculate figure, leaning lightly on a cane. His laughing, wise, cynical eyes challenged her and invited her to share his amusement with him. But in their bold black depths was something else.

In the next chapter the Princess Lalla is confronted by some of her former playmates at the orphanage.

It's Never Too Late For A Career

IT'S never too late to change your career, according to Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche, mother of two sons and a best seller.

"When I gave up the stage for matrimony, I thought I was through with careers," Mrs. Roche admitted. "I expected to be just the wife of Mr. Roche, the novelist, and nothing else."

"But after I had listened to my husband's advice to young authors for four or five years, I decided to take a crack at the literary art myself, in spite of my alleged domestic chains. Steady, daily work turned the thick. With my first novel off my mind, I'm now at work on number two."

"Any housewife can write a book. All you have to do is sit down and write. Put two men and one woman in a room; figure out what they will do. That is a novel. Use two women and one man if you prefer. But stick to the triangular arrangement."

"Set aside a regular period each day for writing down what the chosen characters are doing in that room. Before you know it you will be a novelist. And maybe you'll make so much money you won't have to do the housework."

"DRY" REFUSES JOB, DOLE STOPS

When a "dry" refuses to work at a bar, and can get no other job, should he be entitled to unemployment dole? That is the question that puzzled the officials of Ireland recently. A youth of 18 was receiving unemployment dole and was offered employment at a public-house bar at wages commencing at $7.50 a week and three meals a day. The youth said he was a teetotaler, and refused the offer, whereupon his unemployment dole was stopped on the grounds that he "unreasonably refused a job offered to him." The Court of Referees refused his application for resumption of his dole, but when he put the case before an umpire under the Unemployment Insurance Act it was ordered resumed without further delay.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"COME on, let's see what we can find," said Clowdy. "Gee, that woodsman's kind. I guess he feared that we might starve while on our houseboat trip. We all forgot that we must eat and what he sent will be a treat. It makes me feel so happy I could run and hop and skip."

"Well, while you're skipping, we'll sail in," said Scouty with a cunning grin. "You'd best be very careful, or the food will be all gone." Then Clowdy laughed and loudly cried, "If any tricks like that are tried, I'll promise there'll be trouble. Let's not eat until the dawn."

They all agreed this was all right and soon there came the dark of night. The Tynymites tossed an anchor out and made their houseboat fast. Eight soon you couldn't hear a peep, "cause everyone had fallen asleep. It didn't seem to take so long for night to drift on past."

Wee Coppy woke up with a sigh at dawn and shouted, "Me, oh, my, get up you lazy Tynymites! Let's have our breakfast now. The waiter I will be today and serve things in a real nice way. I've often watched a waiter work and so I know just how."

The rest all sat upon the floor and ate just heaps and yelled for more. "You've had enough," cried Coppy. "Think how poorly you will feel if you go on and stuff this way. Now, over-eating doesn't pay. 'Tis best we save a part so we can have another meal."

"So, all the food they didn't eat was shortly packed away real neat. Just then a lot of birds flew near. "Oh, look! They're hungry, too," said Scouty. "Come, let's feed them all. They'll think the crumbs we've left are swell." And so the birds were fed and then away they swiftly flew.

Household Hints

GRATED CHEESE
If you have made a creamed soup that seems to lack something tasty, try adding a tablespoonful of grated cheese just before serving.

WASHING RUGS
When washing rugs, do not ring out. Hang on the line and play the hose on them for rinsing. Then leave hanging until dry.

RAW VEGETABLES
A raw vegetable salad is a fine luncheon dish. Use shivers of carrots, chopped cabbage, grated beets and sliced beans. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

DIFFERENT DRESSING
Mayonnaise can be varied tremendously by adding any of the following: whipped cream, grated cheese, peanut butter, horseradish, chili sauce or shredded pineapple.

CLEAN QUILTS
Quilts should be washed in warm soap water and dried at once in the open air, with an occasional shake.

IN TWO SHADES

Paris—(P)—The combination of two shades of blue is much in evidence just now. A Doucet model makes an original use of dark blue on fore-sleeves and vest front. The dress of heavy crepe roma is a French blue. There are touches of embroidery in red, blue and yellow.

CIGARETTE IS CAUSE OF MANY A LARGE FIRE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NOTHING million-dollar fire started by cigarette!

The Department of Forestry tells us that 80 per cent of all forest fires are started by cigarettes.

It seems strange that carelessness should go hand-in-hand with education, but so it seems, for there is little doubt that we are becoming educated, as a nation, to the dangers of fire, and its causes.

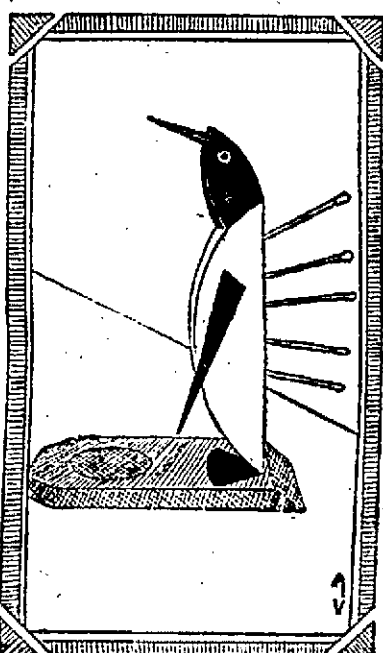

We know that rubber hose-connections on stoves are dangerous, that exposed electric-wiring is dangerous, that poor insulation, gas leaks, and cleaning-fluids that contain explosives are not to be trifled with. We have forsaken the garden variety of house-matches for the safety match, or eliminated it altogether and substituted the ubiquitous lighter. And yet, for all our higher education, on matters incensary, every day in one way we are getting more and more careless—more careless than ever.

Once I saw an exquisite imported table, inlaid with mother-of-pearl, ruined beyond repair by a cigarette laid carelessly on its edge by a young Romeo seizing a girl to dance. Not inches away stood an ash tray.

In another house I saw a hall newly covered with a 'composition' resembling tile or marble, with a large black blotch in the center burned there by a cigarette. The owner had had an estimate for the repair; it would cost him two hundred dollars. The carelessness of a 'guest'!

Of course we still have with us the tired gentleman who sets the bed on fire by neglecting to anticipate sleep as he smokes. But it is not the apparent damage, but the unapparent, that I would call attention to, and the numerous articles of furniture that are destroyed by carelessness in disposing of lighted cigarettes. I have seen so many beautiful mantels, tables, and chairs defaced, and even bathroom fixtures marred beyond repair, that I should like to know what the sum total amounts to annually.

MOM and MARY Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom, dear:

Oh, yes, I told you in my last letter that Florence is returning home next week, and I know you're anxious to know the how and why of her departure.

You see, it's a man and a girl, and the unexplainable part is why this man and this girl who have known each other platonically, you might say suddenly find some irresistible appeal each other that they can't hurdle. That's the very thing that happened to Mabel and Michelle.

And that's why Florence is going home. Poor Florence hasn't had such a good year. Losing her boy friend at home and now Michelle has given her the air. I don't think, though, that Florence was in love with him. I can't imagine any girl married to Michelle. He's so undependable and temperamental and erratic and yet the kind of a man most girls can't resist.

But, thank goodness, Florence didn't hopelessly tumble. Only thing I'm sorry about is that Florence hasn't anyone to pal around with here. Alan and I don't know many single men who could be enlisted to entertain her.

It would be nice of him to entertain Florence at present. You know Alan has a cold and is confined to the apartment for a few days. He won't have a doctor and I haven't the slightest idea what to do for him. Last night I fixed him up some hot lemonade, then made him take a real hot bath and then put him to bed with a lot of covers and his heavy winter overcoat on top. That didn't seem to do any good. What's good for a cold, Mom? Norman said a plaster couldn't do any harm but that sounds silly to me.

I think Alan would improve faster if the office would let him alone. One of the girls calls him up about every half hour on some business matter or other and then makes him tell her how he feels. It doesn't do him a bit of good to keep getting up to answer her. I certainly think some office girls show the poorest judgment.

NEXT: Mom understands — too well.

NEARBY
TOWNSBYRD'S NEW BOOK
PUT ON SHELVES OF KAUKAUNA LIBRARY

"Skyward" Paints Picture of Man's Struggle to Conquer
The Air

Kaukauna—Among the most recent books received at Kaukauna Public Library are "Skyward" by Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., and "The General's Ring" by Selma Lagerlof. Both books are strongly recommended by Miss Kathryn Hornbrook, librarian.

In discussing "Skyward" Miss Hornbrook said: "Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd, hero of North pole and trans-Atlantic flights, holds a unique position in the hearts of the American public. He is admired for his daring, esteemed for his scientific attainments, and generally popular for his modesty and charm. The steady growth of his popularity has been a just reward for these virtues as well as for his breathtaking exploits. Full of action and splendor as it is Byrd's story does not fall into the class of simple biographical yarns. Using the stark reality of his terrifying adventures as a background he paints a splendid picture of man's struggle to conquer the air and of the grand victory of human ingenuity over gravity that has sprung in a brief span of 25 years from centuries of despairing effort. "Skyward" is a book that is as revealing to the mature mind as it is inspiring to the youth."

"The other story is built around old General Lovenskold. He has been a valiant soldier under Charles XII. He was buried in all his finery, even with the great ring, a gift of the king. But before the tomb was sealed the ring was stolen and henceforward carried in its wake a fatal trail of drama and misfortune."

"How the curse is laid and peace restored to the village makes a story which is as in the work of the Nobel prize author, the alluring beauty lights the dark likes of the peasants and infuses the whole with interest and charm."

One of the most practical books received at the library in some time is "Four Money's Worth" by Stuart Chase and F. J. Choate. This is a study in the waste of the consumer's dollar. According to the book the consumer of today is Alice in a wonderland of high pressure salesmanship with everything advertised as the best. The question is asked "How extraneous the wasteful process of trial and error is the consumer to determine the best?" It is the purpose of this book to explore the wonderland of advertising and salesmanship and to indicate a path that may lead out of it to the solid ground of fact. Miss Hornbrook reminds borrowers of library books that they should be reserved by just calling the librarian.

DOINGS OF THE DODGES

FOR ONE LAST PARADE

Madison—(P)—Veterans of campaigns under Grant, Sherman and Meade will hold their last parade in Madison during the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, June 12, 13, and 14.

The line of march for the enfeebled Union warriors extends only around the capitol square to seats from which they will review the parade of civic and patriotic organizations.

The 1923 encampment will probably be the final gathering of Wisconsin men who compose the remains of a once mighty Union army whose soldiers marched with youthful faces into Civil War battles.

Maj. George F. O'Connell, chairman of the committee arranging the parade, is asking capital city organizations to co-operate in paying honor to the old soldiers.

"Those few survivors who perhaps march for the last time and to the memory of their million comrades for whom taps have already been sounded."

HEIRS OF LUSITANIA
VICTIMS ARE FINALLY COLLECTING DAMAGES

Wait of 13 Years and Finally Resulted in Payment of
Some of the Claims

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—More than 13 years ago the German embassy here advertised in the newspapers a warning to Americans against sailing through the war zone on British ships.

That was the beginning of the story of the Lusitania, which was torpedoed six days later near Ireland with loss of 124 Americans, whose deaths proved the greatest single factor in pushing us into war with Germany.

The incident is now being closed. It was within a week or two of May 7, the thirteenth anniversary of the Lusitania catastrophe, that the heirs and survivors of the American victims began to receive the $2,500,000 damages awarded them by the Mixed Claims Commission against Germany.

Most of the money has been paid and the rest will be doled out as fast as the remaining successful claimants file their applications with the treasury under provision of the War Claims Act. That act proved for immediate payment of all death and personal injury claims and all claims under $100,000. The other claims are being paid by installments. The money will really come from Germany, but as it is being collected over a 75-year period under the Dawes plan, Congress decided to take care of the American claimants while some of them remained alive.

The Mixed Claims Commission, under the umpireship of Judge Edwin E. Parker of Texas, started out with nearly 12,500 claims for an aggregate of nearly $1,500,000,000. It scaled them down to awards of about $200,000,000. With one American and one German member, plus Parker, it handled both American claims and those of Germany for war-seized property of her nationals.

Four millions were awarded for 384 American death and personal injury claims, the greater part of this involving the Lusitania fatalities.

These Lusitania awards were made strictly on the basis of what the death of a passenger meant in financial loss to the heir.

For the death of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hubbard the heirs received $57,500—$25,000 to Elbert Hubbard II, $7500 to Katherine Hubbard and $25,000 to Miriam Hubbard. Elbert and Katherine were children by Hubbard's first marriage; Miriam by his second. Elbert and Miriam were heirs to Hubbard's $400,000 estate. Two sons of the first marriage, Ralph and Sanford, were awarded nothing by the commission because their father had not contributed to their support for a long time before his death.

The estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt entered a $250,000 claim and was not allowed anything. Vanderbilt had spent nearly $300,000 a year on himself and family, but he had left $2,000,000 to his widow and two children and it was shown that he had not been adding to his estate. Hence the decision that his death was no financial loss to the heirs.

Aged sisters of Charles Frohman, the unmarried theatrical producer, said to have died with the assertion that death was life's most beautiful adventure, filed a claim which was also denied on similar principle. The commission felt no relief was needed, as Frohman's movie stockholdings had increased in value.

The two sons of Charles Klein, another producer who went down, are receiving $50,000. They were born in America and Klein had filed papers for American citizenship before his death.

Mrs. Klein got nothing, as she was a British subject and still a widow. The widow and daughter of Albert L. Hopkins, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., drew $80,000 in the claim that Hopkins had always spent his $25,000-a-year salary on his family "because of business and social connections." He left no estate except a small insurance policy and the commission held that he had invested his salary for future benefit.

Mrs. Andrew Billcke, widow of a Los Angeles rearer, got $50,000 and each of her children $20,000—the largest award for a single Lusitania death. It was shown that Billcke's earning capacity as a rearer had pyramided an original $16,000 investment into $2,700,000 in less than 25 years. He had spent up to $68,000 a year on his family and the commission decided Germany ought to pay for the loss of his earning power.

Samuel M. Knox, president of the New York Shipbuilding Co., was awarded $15,000 for injuries in the Lusitania sinking and $1250 for property loss at the time. He barely escaped with his life after going down under a smokestack and being rescued from the water by a lifeboat. He died in 1924, so the money goes to his estate.

Many other claims were made to the commission which were felt to be poorly grounded. A distiller brought an unsuccessful claim for $500,000, claiming that Germany had brought on the war and that the war had brought on prohibition running his business.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllium. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

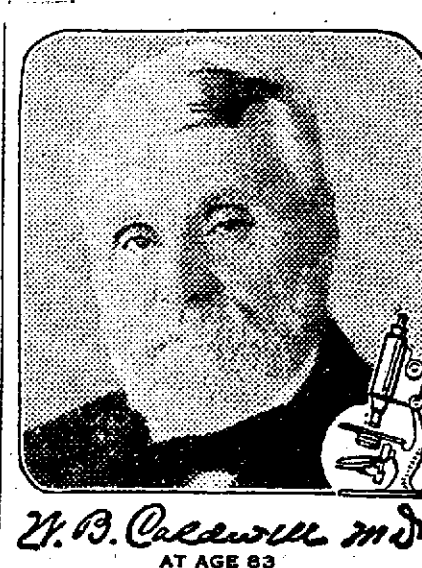

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit. On repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

SENATOR BORAH'S WIFE IS 'MOTHER' TO WAR VETERANS

Prospective "First Lady" Reveals That Her Husband Must Have His Cookies

EDITORS NOTE—This is the seventh of a series on prospective "First Ladies," by Allene Sumner, writer for The Post-Crescent and NEA Service. Today's article deals with Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, who is mentioned as a Republican presidential aspirant.

BY ALLENE SUMNER—Washington, D. C. — Revelation have been made in the not so far distant past of toothpicks on the White House table. Little mention has ever been made of a cookie jar in the White House pantry.

But if Senator William E. Borah of Idaho should be our next president, the first foremost job of the new First Lady would be to see that a White House cookie crock was well filled with sugary, cinnamon, scrunchy, raisin-topped cookies into which the president could dip the presidential paw at frequent intervals.

"For," as golden-headed little Mrs. Borah confided, "the senator just can't function without his cookie jar." Nor would the cookie jar end the First Lady's duties. There's the little matter of onion soup, too. The senator, confides Mrs. Borah, is still searching for the perfect onion soup. He insists that he never gets it at home.

LOOKS FOR RECIPES—Wherever popular Mrs. Borah goes she is constantly on the lookout for onion soup. She thought she had found it when in Atlantic City a few weeks ago, and interviewed the hotel chef himself for the recipe. She special-delivered the recipe back to her cook in Washington, and thought she had earned her wifely laurels.

"But when I got home the senator said it wasn't quite right, either," she moaned. "I don't know what he wants—whether it's more cheese or pepper or what—but it'll be a red star day when he admits his onion soup is made right."

They call the Borahs down in Washington "Big Borah" and "Little Borah," for the possible First Lady porcelain drink from table lily pools. Bits of jade and brass plaques make the fragrant orient live in this little bit of the occident.

And myriads of canaries and goldfinches fly about the sunny rooms, for "Little Borah" says it's bad enough to take birds from their forest home without cooping them up in cages. Once in a while a fluff of yellow feather settles down to drink from a green porcelain turtle bowl.

THEY CALL HER MOTHER—And into this haven of jade and brocade and singing birds comes a strange procession of humanity—derelicts, boys and girls who call "Little Borah" "Aunt Mary" and claim her as their nearest relative.

For "Little Borah," childless herself as mother to the world's motherless. She never turns a pleader away. The shell-shocked soldier boys of St. Elizabeth's are her special pet. Week after week, her basket filled with fruit and magazines and gay pictures, she takes the street car out to the mental hospital to help "the boys" who live for this weekly visit.

It is no longer popular or the fashion to visit war victims so long after the war, but "Little Borah's" fashions are her own—the fashion of eternal service.

Every morning the postman brings her a stack of mail from the four corners of the country—from mothers and father and sisters and sweethearts of other soldier boys "somewhere" or missing. Sometimes a grubby dollar bill "for a boy who needs it" is tucked in the letter; sometimes a big box of nuts or vegetables or fruits come from south or west. But for the most part she goes her way alone, working where so many have forgotten.

News of her self-imposed motherhood has so traveled that other boys and girls ring her apartment bell as casually as Alice Longworth, who is a frequent morning caller.

A wild-eyed, well-faced boy was sitting on her Chinese brocade sofa one day when I was with her, begging her to get his brother out of prison. They came in at all hours of the day, or night to be fed and mothered. They call her their "next of kin" when getting jobs, and she never denies it.

One guests that certain conventional demands of a First Lady would not satisfy "Little Borah," who despises form and ritual and pigrammole, and only asks to "get big things done." "I am just a gypsy," she says. "I hate planning things ahead. I just want to get my hat on and run when I feel like it." She won't pay official Washington calls.

"I can't answer my letters," she says. She has no social secretary, not even a typewriter. Every morning she sits down with her pile of letters and writes with pen and ink reassurance and help.

Her father was Governor William McConnell of Idaho, later a U. S. senator. She met Senator Borah when he was campaigning for her father.

"I liked him because he seemed so big and powerful," she says.

LIVE MODESTLY—The Borahs are said to be about the only senatorial family in Washington who live within their salary. They accept few invitations because they feel they have neither the time nor means to entertain. But no couple are so sought by the most important people, for "Little and Big Borah" are pronounced delightful because of their unpretension and genuineness.

Meeting Mrs. Borah is like a sun bath, a plunge into something warm and mellow and comforting. One hears the birds singing the minute the door bell is rung. The maid no sooner opens the door than "Little Borah" sings out the name of her expected caller and rushes to the door herself, taking coat and hat and umbrella and galoshes and insisting on the softest chair for the visitor, a cushion at the back, a cup of tea, and "just a good rest before you talk."

The eternal mother. That is "Mamie McConnell Borah," but a youthful eternal mother of golden hair, blue eyes, pink cheeks, a debutante's grace, and the chic of a Parisian model. They call "Big Borah" "Lucky Borah," too. There's a reason.

MILTON'S FAMOUS VILLAGE STAR GIVES EXPERT, POWERFUL PERFORMANCE IN NEW TYPE OF ROLE IN MID GUNNING'S STORY

A new kind of underworld—that of a large city's populous and mysterious Chinatown—furnishes the background of "The Hawk's Nest," starring Milton Sills, at the Elite Theatre 3 days starting today.

This First National Picture marks a distinct departure for Sills, who appears in the early part of the story as a disfigured war veteran, with a makeup equally as good as anything Lon Chaney has achieved in recent years.

The story, which concerns two underworld resorts, opened largely to thrill tourists, is handled in a unique manner by Benjamin Christensen, who achieves some of the most trick camera effects that have been seen since "The Last Days" and "Viviani." The air of Chinatown is symbolized as much by camera work as it is by actual Chinese architecture, the picture being given all the wired mystery of a "thriller" largely through camera work. Sills operates one of these underworld cafes for tourists, while Montagu Love, another underworld gangster, operates a rival establishment, which is attempting to put Sills' place "The Hawk's Nest," out of business through framing Sills' partner, played by Mitchell Lewis. The enmity between Sills and Love is deepened through Sills' protecting the director, played by Doris Kenyon, who is sought by Love.

Mystery, thrills, and the tense atmosphere of the underworld furnish the background for this fast-moving drama, one of the best in which Sills has appeared for many months. A particularly admirable performance is given by the distinguished Chinese actor, Sojin. The story is by Victor Gunning, who also produced the film for First National Pictures.

"FOOLS FOR LUCK"

A tip to Huntersville in the company of W. C. Fields and Chester Conklin, imitable kings of mirth, is one of the finest bits of entertainment that could be found anywhere. Such a journey is afforded in "Fools for Luck," the Paramount comedy which opened at Fischer's Appleton Theatre this afternoon with a special holiday stage presentation.

Sparkling humorous situations, worked through a logical and highly interesting story spiced with an appealing love theme, make this picture refreshingly different from the ordinary run of screen comedies. It is a carefully devised and highly polished extravaganza of characterizations, but it is one laugh, varying in degrees from chuckles to hilarious roars, from beginning to end.

Fields and Conklin have given the public many laughs in their long careers as comedians but they have never before had roles which fit them as do their parts in "Fools for Luck."

Fields, as the club promoter who invades the small town with a grip full of oil stock and his pockets empty, is so convincing that one feels sorry for the public should he ever tire of the screen and decide to take up promoting as a career.

Conklin is perfect as the leading citizen of the small town who loves his wife, is proud of his beautiful daughter and almost as proud of his reputation as local champion of the municipality. There are touches of pathos in the walrus mustache comedian's characterization that are truly masterful.

LAWRENCE, APPLETON HIGH TRACK CHAMPIONSHIPS

Vikings Led By Hydes In Triumph Over Three Foes In First Conference Meet

Doug Hyde Breaks Two State Records, Ties Third to Lead Point Scorers

A determined bunch of athletes, representing Lawrence college, followed the lead of their commanders and as a result won the battle by a close margin Saturday afternoon at Whitling field. The athletes were determined to win the first championship of the newly-organized Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Association, formed last winter, and they did winning the first annual track and field contest by 53 points.

The Vikings, led by their co-captains, the Hyde twins, piled up 534 points to 524 for Carroll, 32 for Ripon and 214 for Beloit, losing a few excepted places but on the whole picking up extra points in events where they were unexpected and showing a better balanced team than their fondest friends expected. Several fourths an unexpected first, an unexpected second and an unexpected third aided the Blues but the meet was decided in the final event, the half-mile relay, which the Vikings topped with ease.

The meet was one of the closest ever held here with Carroll and Lawrence alternating in the lead and with the Blue ahead by just 13 points with just two events to go. At one time during the meet the Pioneers led by 34 of a point but the Blue added eight in the next event. The relay team, Doug Hyde, Ellis, Pope and Don Hyde, won that event in 1:31.5, breaking its former mark, set a week ago at the Hamline relays, 1:31.8, which incidentally won the relay carnival mar at the Minnesota school. Two of the relay men, Pope and Ellis, also had just finished a hard broad jump, where they went through the finals as well as the prelims, Pope taking first and Ellis third.

DOUG BREAKS TWO
Five new marks were during the meet, Doug Hyde capturing two. Schley of Carroll one, Heins of Ripon, one, and the Lawrence relay team, with Doug Hyde also a member, the other. Doug also tied the conference mark in the century. He was first man of the meet with his three firsts and an additional third for 17 points and brother Don had a first, second and fourth for 1 points. 26 of Lawrence's total between them.

Doug won the 100-yard dash in 10 flat by several feet to tie the record held by Martin, Nesbitt, Langworthy and Ellis, Beloit and Stair of Lawrence. He took things easy and had been pushed he would have at least set a 9.9 mark for a new conference record. He came back in the 220-yard dash and broke that event record by traveling the yardage in 22.2 seconds. The old record of 22.4 seconds set in 1923 by Adams, Beloit and Murray of Ripon, respectively. Smith of Lawrence's old mark of 26 seconds flat in the 220-yard dash was the last record to fall under Doug's feeling feet. Doug's new record is 25.2 seconds. Besides all this, Doug broke the record for the 100-yard dash in the high jump, took a third with a jump of 5 feet 3 inches in the high jump.

Close behind Doug Hyde's 17 points came Rassmussen of Carroll, in the race for second honors with 12 points scored by first in the shot and discus and a third in the javelin.

The Vikings scored seven firsts and three seconds to give them their majority while the Pioneers ran them a close race in the point column with six firsts and four seconds. Ripon took only two firsts but added three seconds to place them ahead of Beloit who did not count a first place in the meet.

Pope had one broad jump of 22 feet 4 inches but it was ruled out by the slightest of margins on a foul. He won the event later with 21 feet 11 inches. Humphrey of Lawrence, got a surprise second in the discus, leading to the final trial.

Rassmussen's weight work and the great work of their distance runners gave Carroll their close second and made things interesting for Lawrence. Mautner took the half-mile and mile in great style and Schley took second in the mile and first in the two mile. In which White of Carroll was third. Schley sprinted the entire last lap of his two-mile after easily distancing the field earlier in the race for a sure win.

100-Yard Dash—First, DOUG HYDE LAWRENCE; second, Williams and Stenback; third, Beloit; fourth, DON HYDE, LAWRENCE. Time—10

BRAVES PURCHASE SISLER FROM NATS

Hornsby Buys Former Strongest Rival in St. Louis Affections

Boston—(P)—George H. Sisler, once one of the greatest first basemen and batters in the American League, joined the ranks of the Boston Braves Monday by virtue of outright purchase from the Washington Senators.

The deal was the first consummated by the Braves under the management of Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman who took over the reins from Jack Slatery a few days ago.

It brought to Boston Hornsby's strongest rival in the affection of St. Louis fans in the days when Hornsby wore a Cardinal uniform and Sisler the Browns.

Although no official announcement of Sisler's assignment was forthcoming from the club offices, it was generally believed that he would take Dick Burrows' place at first and that Burrows, who has not demonstrated anything like his old time form, would be held temporarily as a reserve.

No details of the financial arrangements were made public but it was reported that the Braves, in addition to assuming Sisler's contract, probably paid considerably over the waiver price of $7,500.

BERT FISHER WINNER OF RIVERVIEW TOURNEY
Bert Fisher won first prize in the first 1928 tournament of Riverview Country club taking the best ball and a 13 hole of medal play with handicap. Second place was won by John Babcock, third by Roy Marston and fourth was a tie between Jack Stevens and R. K. Wolter. W. R. Whenton won a special prize.

220-Yard Dash—First, DOUG HYDE LAWRENCE; second, Donnan, Beloit, third, Lomas, Carroll; fourth, Stamm, Ripon. Time 22.2 seconds. (New record.)

400-Yard Dash—First, DON HYDE LAWRENCE; second, Beloit, third, Ripon; fourth, Podalske, Carroll. Time 1:31.5. (New record.)

800-Yard Dash—First, Moutner, Carroll; second, Hobart, Beloit, third, Smith, Ripon; fourth, MENNING, LAWRENCE. Time 2:39.7.

1600-Yard Dash—First, DON HYDE LAWRENCE; second, Rude, Ripon; third, RASMUSSEN, LAWRENCE; fourth, Podalske, Carroll. Time 5:25 seconds.

120-Yard High Hurdles—First, Lomas, Carroll; second, Stamm, Ripon; third, Hein, Ripon; fourth, Donnan, Beloit. Time 16.4 seconds.

440-Yard Dash—First, DON HYDE LAWRENCE; second, Meyer, Carroll; third, DOUG HYDE, LAWRENCE; fourth, Williams, Ripon. Height 5 feet 6 1/2 inches.

Pole Vault—First, Martin, Ripon; second, Krohn, Carroll; third, Wittenberg, Beloit; Meyer, Carroll; CAN. SON, LAWRENCE and SCOTT, LAWRENCE, tied for third. Height 10 feet 9 inches.

LEAD NEW CHAMPIONS

Leaders in two respects are the Hyde twins, Doug and Don. Lawrence college only major championship team of the year. For the Appleton boys are co-captains of the new champs and were leaders in the point column for the Vikings as well in the first title competition of the new W. I. A. A. formed last winter. Doug scored 17 points with three first and a third, breaking two conference marks and tying a third, and Don had 9 with a first second and fourth, running a great race in the 400-yard dash.

Greatest Race Of Season Between Count, Victorian

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

Since the celebrated match race between Man o' War and Sir Barton, numerous attempts have been made to manufacture another speed contest of the century. Papyrus and Ephraim were imported to the United States but their performances were sad affairs and it was only the ballyhoo of an international show that gave them the prominence with which they were treated.

The promotion of horse racing is closely related to the promotion of any other professional sport or amusement. It is seldom that the promoters find anything "natural" in hand for the making. The invasion of the United States by Papyrus and Ephraim was no exception.

No effort has been made to advance either Victorian or Reigh Count as another Man o' War. In fact the turf writers are not too hasty in rating either as a great thoroughbred in his own right. The fancy led writers made much fuss over Reigh Count for his popular Derby victory, but the turf writers whose reputations are of more concern were less extravagant.

The turf experts wrote the opinion that the Derby proved one of two things: either Reigh Count is a great colt or the field against him was a bunch of bums. The evidence in the form sheets would favor the indication of class as he was a winning two-year-old and failed to win the Futurity last year because he had to be a gentleman and permit his stablemate, Miss Anita Peabody, to arch her neck for the decorations.

Victorian, in much the same fashion, has not proved himself to the strict demands of the experts. His victory in the Preakness was of reduced lustre because it was one of those hairline decision things. Toro ran him so close to a dead heat that many thought the McLean colt was the actual winner.

Victorian, it was generally admitted, won the Preakness in the adding of Sonny Workman and Ambrose on Toro was made the goat and was officially charged in the chart with having been the cause of Toro's defeat.

But some of the boys who were on horses back of the two leaders have whispered that Workman reached over the fence and got himself a handful of Toro's saddle blanket.

Victorian also, through no fault of his own, got the blame for ducking a hard match when his owners did not send him to Churchill Downs for the Derby. He was kept in the east to run in the Withers (which he won) when his trainer said he did not come out of the Preakness well and could not stand the trip to Kentucky.

FAVOR REIGH COUNT TO WIN
All of this adds to the ballyhoo and makes the first race between the two star colts one of those "natural" that brings a smile to the poker-stuffed face of Tex Rickard. It ought to be one of those things that the old-timers meant when they talked of a "race race."

Victorian and Reigh Count probably are not of the Man o' War or Sir Barton heroic mold but they obviously are the best horses of the early season if Nassau is not to be too harshly handled for his disappointing early form.

Victorian and Reigh Count already are beyond the $100,000 class of winners and the race must be something of a terrific test. The race will give the owners of the two star colts the chance to prove their animals but if they don't meet then they certainly will have to meet later in the season. And if they do meet, watch the dough fall on Reigh Count for he surely was nice to the million dollars that backed him in the Derby.

MAY MEET JUNE 9
Following the running of the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby this year there seems to be the "natural" material for a race between Victorian, the aristocratic pet of the swell Harry Payne Whitney stable, and Reigh Count, the popular little red fellow from the western barns of Mrs. John L. Hertz. A race between the winners of the Preakness and the popular victor in the classic Derby might not be the race of the century, literally, but it at least would be THE race of the year and it probably will be staged in the Belmont Stakes on June 9.

No effort has been made to advance either Victorian or Reigh Count as another Man o' War. In fact the turf writers are not too hasty in rating either as a great thoroughbred in his own right. SUNDAY GAMES
Green Bay at Kaukauna. Appleton at Kimberly-Little Chute. Neenah-Menasha at Fond du Lac.

The Kimberly-Little Chute team dug in a bit deeper at the top of the heap in the Fox River Valley league race by defeating Green Bay, 4 to 3. It was the victory in a row for the Papermakers and company. About 1,000 spectators witnessed the fray at the Bay, which was featured by sensational fielding.

Neenah-Menasha took the count 11 to 4 at the hands of Kaukauna. The Falls fielded loosely and the invading Kays bunched their blows when the bags were populated.

For the second week in succession Fond du Lac was rained out. Wet grounds at Brandt park forced a postponement.

LAST MINUTE RELIES
Green Bay—Coming from behind in the last two frames, Kimberly-Little Chute pulled a game out of the fire from Green Bay by the score of 4 to 3.

The Papermakers didn't get a blow off Ratchell until two were away in the eighth. Two mistakes cooked the Green Sox goose in the ninth. Becker, Kotal and Kaye uncorked fielding feats.

OLYMPIC HOPES OF BIG TEN MEN SOAR
West Batters East's Marks in Eight of Fourteen Events

Chicago—(P)—Hopes of the Big Ten to place its outstanding stars on America's Olympic track and field team were buoyed instead of dimmed by the annual outdoor conference meet at Sturday, which marked another triumph for Illinois.

Comparison of records made by the Big Ten tracksters and those competing in the eastern intercollegiate at Harvard on the same day and under about the same weather conditions reveal the west excelled in eight events, the east in six, while one, the running high jump, was even. The Big Ten was faster in all track events, while the eastern performer was superior in the field, except for the high jump.

Not only did Illinois win the title again with 55 1/2 points, but it led the nation in eligibles for the forthcoming Olympic tryouts with eleven. Iowa, second place winners in the championships 49 1/2 points, placed six candidates. Northwestern placed 5, Michigan 4, Ohio State 2, Minnesota 2, and Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue and Chicago one each.

BADGERS IN LINE FOR SECOND PLACE HONORS
Chicago—(P)—With five teams competing for second place, the Big Ten baseball season will close this week with a schedule of six games.

Swede Johnston Breaks Three Records To Lead Orange To Second Title

Batley, Sophomore Half Miler; Neller, Pole Vault, Take Other Firsts

POINT TOTAL
APPLETON	48
Manitowoc	38
West Green Bay	33½
Marquette	10
East Green Bay	8
Oshkosh	5½
High Point Men

Scoring points in eleven of the thirteen events on the cards, including five firsts and led by their greatest track star Capt. Swede Johnston, who gathered three firsts in the century, shot put and broad jump, Appleton high school Saturday afternoon, at Manitowoc won the fifth annual Fox River Valley Conference track and field meet.

The Orange scored 48 points, which was earned in all events, with the exception of the 120-yard high hurdles and the high jump. Manitowoc high school finished second with 38 points, closely followed by West Green Bay, which scored 28 points. The three other competing schools trailed, Marquette with 10 points, East Green Bay with eight points, which was earned in all events, under chilling winds with a bright sun giving way to clouds and a drizzle near the close of the meet, the contestant proceeded to smash existing records with the very first event run, the 120-yard high hurdles and continued on down the line until new marks were set in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, pole vault, broad jump, javelin, shot, discus, 220 yard low hurdles and 440-yard run.

STRONG IN FIELD
Appleton won because it was better fortified in the field events than either Manitowoc or West Green Bay. After Johnston helped along with 15 points, the Shieldsman took three of the four places in the pole vault, a second in the discus, a third in the javelin. And they were not doing so bad in the track for with Johnston giving them first in the century Orange club winners took a second in the 440-yard dash, a first in the half mile, a third in the mile, a second in the 220-yard dash and a third in the 100 yard dash.

Herbert of West Green Bay was second in the mile run, with 10 points gathered by reason of a first, in the discus where he set a new record, second in the javelin and third in the shot put. Frick of Manitowoc came next with nine points, a win in the 220-yard dash and thirds in the 100-yard dash and broad jump. Capt. Towles of Manitowoc won the 22-yard low hurdles and was second to Gallenberger of West Green Bay in the 120-yard high hurdles.

The meet went off without a hitch, the only disturbing element being the disqualification of De Young of Appleton, who won second in the mile run, for fouling a runner at the turn. The judges took a long time about deciding the protest but finally allowed it and as a result Borchers of West Green Bay was moved up to second, Steinhacher of Appleton third and Maresch of Manitowoc fourth. The mile was won by Brady of Manitowoc.

Appleton took the lead almost from the jump. Wins in the 100-yard dash, broad jump and 880-yard run gave it a commanding lead and it was never headed. At one time near the close of the meet Manitowoc crept up to within six points of a tie but then Appleton came through with three places and nine points in the pole vault to put the meet on ice.

In the tennis tournament Howes of Oshkosh won the singles title and Ashby and Kuplic of Manitowoc the doubles title.

Had the day been warmer it is believed that there would have been an even greater slashing of conference records, but when it is considered that new marks were set in all but four events of a thirteen-event program it was evident that there was a pretty fast field competing. Greatest interest centered in the javelin by reason of Harold Schreiber's toss of nearly 182 feet a week ago. Although suffering from a sore arm the local star hurled the spear 179 feet and 6 inches, for a new record and an easy first. Herber again finished second to Schreiber.

Appleton capped first place by the broad jump, 100 yard, shot put, pole vault and 880-yard run, Manitowoc in the 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, javelin and mile and West Green Bay in the discus, 120-yard high hurdles, and 440-yard dash. The only other first went to Marquette in the high jump.

Green Bay West went into the lead in the first event when Gallenberger won the 120 yard high hurdles from Capt. "Dick" Towlesley of Manitowoc, a burst of speed after the two cleared the last hurdle together, giving the Green Bay wood topper first place. Nickels of Marquette was third and Tachy of Oshkosh fourth. The time of 15 3/10 seconds set a new record.

Appleton went into a tie right away when Johnston ran the century in 10.4 seconds for a new conference record to beat out Lund of Marquette. Erick came through with three places and nine points in the pole vault to put the meet on ice.

Johnston took his third first in the broad jump when he leaped 22 feet 1 inch, beating his own and the conference record of 21 feet 1 1/2 by a foot. Klaus of East Green Bay was third, Erick of Manitowoc was second and Bouchette of Oshkosh fourth. But where Johnston left off his teammates carried on and as a result Appleton was never in danger.

ing right away from the field in the last lap to win over Maloney of West Green Bay and Aleckson and Meyer of Manitowoc. The two Red and White runners stepped out too early in the race to take the lead and were headed by both Batley and Maloney on the last turn. The time of 2:09 did not reach the record of 2:07 held by Schroeder of Manitowoc.

In the quarter mile Sharp of West Green Bay and Roemer of Appleton staged a pretty race all the way with the former beating out the Appleton runner at the tape. Schmidt and Haughton of Manitowoc took third and fourth. The time of 54.8 also set a new conference record over the 55.8 second mark held by Fischel of Manitowoc.

Herber of West Green Bay came into his own in the discus throw when he heaved the platter 118 feet 11 inches to set a new record beating his own mark of last year by 3 feet and also taking first place. Kruse of Appleton took second, however. Klaus and Shilke both of East Green Bay took the remaining places in this event.

Frick stepped out in the 220-yard dash to take first without much trouble over Wolfram of Appleton. He led from the start and drew up at the finish. The time of 23.9 came within four tenths of a second of tying the record, however. Klaus and Shilke both of East Green Bay took the remaining places in this event.

Capt. Towlesley in the last race of his high school career, the 220-yard low hurdles, and the last track event of the meet ran a beautiful race to win first place and break the conference record by doing the distance in 27.6 seconds, to beat the 28.3 seconds old mark. Gallenberger of West Green Bay who was expected to give Towlesley a fight all the way met with an accident, falling as he was taking a hurdle turning into the home stretch and finished last. Arkins of West Green Bay was second and Popp of Appleton third. If Towlesley had been pressed it is believed that he could have run the low hurdles under 27 seconds.

PLENTY PUSHING
In what some of the coaches and a few spectators characterized as a "dirty-race" Brady came through to win the mile run. There was a big field of starters and as a result before it got around to the final lap there had been much pushing and jostling between the contestants. There was no doubt considerable pushing and hauling and so at the finish a dispute arose that took half an hour to straighten out. Brady of Manitowoc took the six lap grudge with De Young of Appleton second, Borchers of West Green Bay third and Steinhacher of Appleton fourth. But it developed that De Young had been detected pulling Borchers by the arm of the last turn. The judges held a long conference and finally voted to disqualify De Young entirely. This advanced Borchers and Steinhacher a place and also gave a fourth place to Maresch of Manitowoc, who had originally finished fifth. The time of the mile was 4:59.6, which was four tenths of a second slower than the record set by Navarro of Appleton last year. Coach Shields of Appleton maintained that there had been other "dirty work at the cross roads" in this race but in view of the fact that his team was far out in front did not worry much about the loss of the three points.

By this time the pole vault, which had been on most of the afternoon, was concluded and Appleton took three of the four places to add nine points to their total. Neller of Appleton took first with a vault of ten feet seven inches which set a new record breaking the old mark by eight inches. Strutz and Foote of Appleton, took second and fourth and Bouchette of Oshkosh, third.

ATHLETICS WHIP COMBINED LOCKS

Smash Kilgas' Shoots for 13 Hits and 6 to 1 Victory

Combining the delivery of Kilgas for 13 safeties and 18 bases, the Appleton Athletics Sunday afternoon took their second victory of the season in the Intercounty Baseball League, whipping Combined Locks at the Locks diamond, 6-1. Brautigan, who pitched most of the game, and Booth held the Locksmen to eight scattered blows not more than one to a single man. Brautigan allowed seven.

Schuster and Vanderlinden got triples and Schuster a double for the winner. Brautigan struck out 8, Booth, 3, and Kilgas 4. There were no walks. Schuster, Verbrick and Herb started for the winners with three hits each. Vander Linden got two hits in six innings in the sixth inning Vander Linden was hit by a thrown ball and was knocked "cold."

The scoring started in the first inning. G. Verbrick first up singled, got to second on a passed ball, and scored on Schuster's triple. In their half, Combined Locks scored their lone tally. Stein singled went to second on error, then on a passed ball and scored on Bruggeman's error. In the third inning Verbrick first up singled, Herb singled and both scored on Schuster's double.

Appleton scored again in the fourth and Herb singled, stole second and came home on Schuster's single. Brautigan was safe on an error by Kilgas and scored on Herb's single. In the sixth Vanderlinden hit and was knocked out by the ball thrown by the infielder. L. Horn ran for him and scored on the left fielder's error. The rest of the game went along without any trouble. Next Sunday the Athletics play Oneda at the Interlake grounds. Wednesday, Memorial day, the Athletics play the Appleton Fox River valley team in a grudge battle.

BREWERS, BLUES IN FIRST-PLACE KNOT

Lels Trip Minneapolis and Now Face Series With Top Sharers

Chicago—(AP)—Jack Leivelt and his Milwaukee cannoneers moved down into Kansas City's ball yard Monday for a four-game argument with the Blues over who's who in the American Association pennant marathon.

Coming through the weekend games with victories, the two teams became deadlocked for first place. St. Paul, which has reposed atop the standings much of the season, fell by the wayside Saturday, dropping to third place.

The Blues trimmed the Saints Sunday in a 12 inning game, 5 to 4. The Brewers defeated Minneapolis, 7 to 3. "Lefty" Brillheart of the Millers pitched good ball except for his wildness, which sent nine men to first via the pass route.

Indianapolis displaced Minneapolis in fourth place, by taking its second straight victory over Toledo. The Indians won Saturday and checked the Mudgett winning streak that had extended 12 games. The two defeats shoved the Hens from fifth to sixth place.

Columbus and Louisville played two games, dividing the twin ball. Columbus won the opener, 3 to 2, and dropped the nightcap, 4 to 3.

Bennie Oosterbaan is through at Michigan but he'll never be forgotten. This Wolverine star of three sports for the past three years will become another Ann Arbor graduate in a few days—and you can bet that many Big Ten schools, while admitting Bennie is a nice boy and all that, is glad he's through. An All-America football end and a nice basketball player, Michigan's star athlete ended his collegiate career as a valuable member of the Big Ten baseball champions.

SHEBOYGAN BACK IN LEAGUE LEAD

Whips Kosciusko Reds, 6 to 1, to Break First-place Tie

Milwaukee—(AP)—After winning their game from Sheboygan Saturday by a brilliant ninth inning rally, the Kosciusko Reds shared first place in the standings of the Wisconsin State league with the visiting Chairmakers. Just 24 hours. Manager Paul Beyer's youngsters winning Sunday's battle by a score of 6 to 1.

Lefty Eckert, whom Manager Al Moran grabbed for the Reds Saturday when he was released by the Brewers, had a bad first inning, the scrappy visitors jumping at his offerings like hungry trout striking flies. When it was all over, a walk and four hits had netted them four runs.

Sensational catches by Norris and Speitz, Sheboygan outfielders, helped Gottsacker out of some bad spots, this pair snaring six drives which were labelled for base hits.

Madison—(AP)—Two errors by Bugs Hersche's Manitowoc nine, four of them by Elmer Tangen, second sacker, helped the Madison Blues take a 12 to 6 win here Sunday afternoon.

The Blues grabbed the lead in the first inning when Whitmore tripled over Wilson's head with two mates on the sacks.

Two Rivers—(AP)—Good fielding behind splendid pitching on the part of George Humber, former Milwaukee Brewer, was instrumental in giving the Union Oils of Milwaukee a victory in the Wisconsin State League here Sunday overwhelming Ty Lober's Mirrors by a score of 10 to 2.

KAUKAUNA YOUTH SETS NEW MARK AT MARQUETTE

Emmett Rohan, of Kaukauna, former Kaukauna high school boy and later a star freshman cross-country man at Lawrence college, furnished one of the big features Saturday when the Marquette University freshmen whipped Lake Forest Academy, 68 to 42. Marquette took eight firsts to two for their rivals and Rohan established the only new track record of the meet, running the mile in 4:43.4. The mark was .6 seconds better than the old record of 4:44.

BLAKE HURLS CUBS TO-WIN OVER BUGS

McCarthyism Still Tied for Loop Lead as Cincy Reds Win

Fine pitching performances by Carl Mays and Sheriff Blake have enabled Cincinnati and Chicago to strengthen their hold on first and second place in the National League pennant race.

Mays, hurled the Reds to a 2 to 0 victory over the Cardinals at St. Louis Sunday. Dunched hits off Reimhart in the seventh and eighth accounted for the Reds' tallies. It was a costly victory for the league-leaders, however, for Ted Lucas, ace of the pitching staff, suffered a broken bone in his wrist during batting practice.

Forty thousand persons jammed Wrigley field to see Blake blank the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 0, granting five scattered safeties. Two of the Cubs' runs were driven in by Cliff Heathcote.

The New York Giants moved into third place by noosing out the Phils in both ends of a double-bill. Ott's single scoring Roush gave McGraw's clan the first game in the eleventh inning, 5 to 4. It was Benton's eighth victory in ten starts, all of them complete games. Don Hurst's wild throw permitted Terry to score the winning run in the ninth inning of the nightcap, Virgil Barnes recording a 2 to 1 victory.

The Robins and Boston Braves divided a double-header at Brooklyn. The Braves won the first game, 4 to 1, by bunching the five hits they got off three Dodger pitchers. Home runs by Del Bissnette and Harvey Hendrick aided Elliott turn back the invaders in the nightcap, 5 to 3.

The best pitching of the day however, came in the American League. Hadley gave Philadelphia only two hits as the Washington Senators downed the Athletics, 4 to 1. Bishop got both of the Yankees' hits, one of them scoring a run in the third.

The St. Louis Browns gained an even break in their series with the Indians by taking the last game, a free-hitting affair, 10 to 8. Uile and Blackholder were batted hard.

Ted Lyons beat Elmer Van Gilder in a pitcher's battle at Chicago and the White Sox nosed out Detroit, 3 to 2. Lyons held the Tigers to four hits, one of them Fothergill's home run in the fifth.

Babe Ruth hit a home run, two singles, walked once and struck out once as the New York Yankees beat York, of the New York Pennsylvania League in an exhibition game, 9 to 2.

BLUE NETTERS SQUEEZE OUT WIN FROM CARROLL

Aided by an injury to one of the opposing players, Coach A. D. Powers' Lawrence college tennis team continued its winning streak Friday afternoon in this city at the expense of the Carroll college netters. The Vikings added their fifth victory in six starts by a 3-2 score, but had the injured man been in play the match might have ended in a tie or a one-point win for Carroll.

The Blues lost the first two singles matches when McKenzie beat Remmel, 6-1, 12-10 and Phillips beat Hansen, 6-3, 6-3. The second set was the best seen on the Blue campus this year. Remmel was handicapped by severe injuries suffered in a ball game in the morning. Then with Parker leading Shock, 11-10, the Pioneer turned his ankle and was forced to default. This turned the tide for Lawrence. Remmel beating Hunter, 6-4, 6-0, and Remmel and Hansen beating Phillips and McKenzie, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4 in the only doubles match because of Shock's injury.

Because of the injury and the closeness of the match, Lawrence gave Carroll a chance for revenge, scheduling an extra match for the season with the Pioneers, to be played Thursday at Waukesha. Friday the Vikings close their net season with Knox, the first Midwest Conference foe ever entertained at the game, at the local campus. Knox has one of the best teams in the midwest.

JOIE RAY LIVES-UP TO ALL HIS BRAGGING

The first impulse on listening to a bragging is to let him have it right on the nose, but there are some individuals who are not offensive when they adhere to no modesty in admitting that they are very remarkable.

Such an individual is Jole Ray, who is about the cockiest little guy that ever owned two dogs. Jole always admitted his dogs were just about the best in the world, and he is proving it. When the dogs ran out on him in the mile he turned them into marathons and they delivered so well for him that he is now a favorite to win the real prize of the Olympic games.

In his first marathon at Doston Ray nearly wore the dogs off to the ankle joints, but he finished third and he tickled his fans when he popped off—"I'll win that Long Beach run and I'll win in Amsterdam, too."

He did win the Long Beach run and he knocked about 15 minutes off the best record that ever had been made for the distance.

Jole then popped off some more. "Wait till I get used to this racket and I'll show you some real running."

It ought to be good.

Writer Explains Why He Hesitates To Forecast

BY ROSELEY DUTCHER

Washington—In a presidential year, the favorite words of the Washington correspondent are "but on the other hand—"

In such a year he deals with words and never predicts anything without leaving himself a large loophole to crawl right back through. Surely anyone who reads Washington political stories at all must have been struck with the frequency of "many say this, but others say that—"

It does seem as if a political writer ought to be able to come out and give his readers the low down and what's what and what's going to happen. If he can't read the future himself he ought to have enough political friends who can tell him about it.

But it doesn't work out that way at all. At the moment it doesn't take a very bold spirit to predict that the national conventions will nominate Hoover and Smith. Many of "us" are beginning to do it. And yet, quite a few others will play safe right up to the conventions. After that, most politicians and correspondents will both enter a long period of doubt running right up to election night.

"Se-and-so ought to win, but—"

One reason such expressions are written in nearly all dispatches until it's all over is that anything can happen to spill the beans; all sorts of possibilities exist that may arise to her favorite. Another is that a fellow hears so many contradictory stories, for the truth is that the politicians who are supposed to be so smart and shrewd that they are able to forecast all political results in advance even if they aren't themselves arranging them are usually just as dumb as the correspondent. The correspondent's persistent question is "What do you know?" and so is the politician's.

Until quite recently, hardly anyone around here conceded that Hoover could be nominated. And there are still one or two rather potent politicians who insist that Smith will be blocked.

The boys aren't even quite sure where lies logic. Thus we find a lot of them insisting that Hoover can't be elected because the farmers dislike him for his opposition to the McNary-Laughlin bill. But they all admit that Coolidge could be re-elected—and yet Coolidge is the man who votes the bill as often as it comes along. They argue that the agricultural states will desert to Smith rather than go for Hoover, but they know that there isn't anything in recent history to indicate that he farmers won't cast the G. O. P. ballot in November as usual.

The real doubting will come after the nominations and, with Smith running, it is easy to understand why. Already the political wheelmen are busy asserting facts and factors and trying to guess just how they will operate. In another month the "some insist that—while others believe—" stories will blossom out more profusely than ever.

How large is the anti-Catholic vote? Can Smith get all the "foreign element" vote and how important will it prove to be? What will the farmers do in the doubtful states? How many votes can be won by Smith's personality? How many lost by his Tammany antecedents and wet record? If Hoover is nominated, how effective will his radio campaign be? Will his poor platform appearance handicap him at all? Will the border state white voters react unfavorably to his anti-segregation policy at the Census Bureau? What will become of the 5,000,000 La Follette voters of 1924? How many people aren't sharing in American prosperity and will they vote accordingly?

How can anyone answer such questions as these? Even the count of the vote won't answer some of them. But they're all material for speculation rather than prophesying. Republicans believe their landslide in the last two elections. Democrats will also in the mountains, full of hope, realizing that 1928 has new possibilities that didn't exist in '20 and '24.

SHOULD BE SIMPLE MATTER TO RAISE ACRES OF POPPIES

Madison—(AP)—Poppies will thrive anywhere if the soil is fairly good, according to the advice of H. Bogard, chairman of the state highway beautification committee, to American Legion posts which are desirous of planting poppies along state highways.

No special preparation of the soil is necessary, he claims. If the seed is scattered broadcast, the rains will wash it in. The seed is very fine, and a single pound of it will be enough to cover several acres. The legion poppies are single flowers of bright orange scarlet hue with yellow centers.

It prove to be? What will the farmers do in the doubtful states? How many votes can be won by Smith's personality? How many lost by his Tammany antecedents and wet record? If Hoover is nominated, how effective will his radio campaign be? Will his poor platform appearance handicap him at all? Will the border state white voters react unfavorably to his anti-segregation policy at the Census Bureau? What will become of the 5,000,000 La Follette voters of 1924? How many people aren't sharing in American prosperity and will they vote accordingly?

AVIATION OFFICER IS WITHOUT A UNIT

Howard Morey Is Commissioned but His Outfit is Completely Lacking

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin's national guard has an aviation officer, but no aviation unit.

Howard A. Morey, Madison pilot, has been commissioned captain of aircraft in the state's military organization. He is a soldier without an outfit; a captain without a command. In his branch of the service, he has neither subordinates to whom he can give orders, nor supervisors from whom he can receive them.

Official material or equipment he has none. For the state owns not a single airplane, not even a propeller.

Ralph H. Immelt, adjutant-general of the Wisconsin guard has been assured by the federal militia bureau in Washington that there is little possibility of establishing an aviation unit for Wisconsin.

But at least, the state has a commissioned officer who is prepared to assume active duty status if it adds aircraft to its force.

In the meantime, Capt. Morey must content himself with being military aide to Gov. Fred Zimmerman, commander-in-chief of the Wisconsin national guard.

Morey piloted the cabin plane to New York to invite the Bremen crew to visit Wisconsin.

In a Modern Bakery

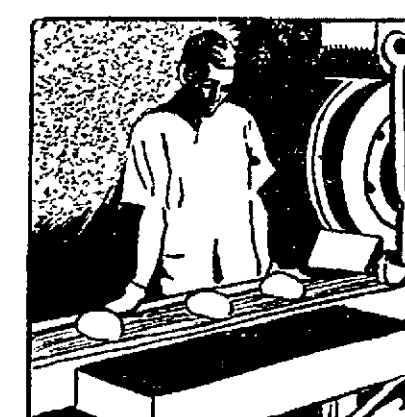

Nearly every one has seen dough mixed by hand, but in a great modern bakery everything is done by machinery. All the ingredients are carefully weighed, and then the dough is placed in these great mixers which knead it more thoroughly than can be done by hand. Each machine mixes enough dough for 1600 loaves of bread.

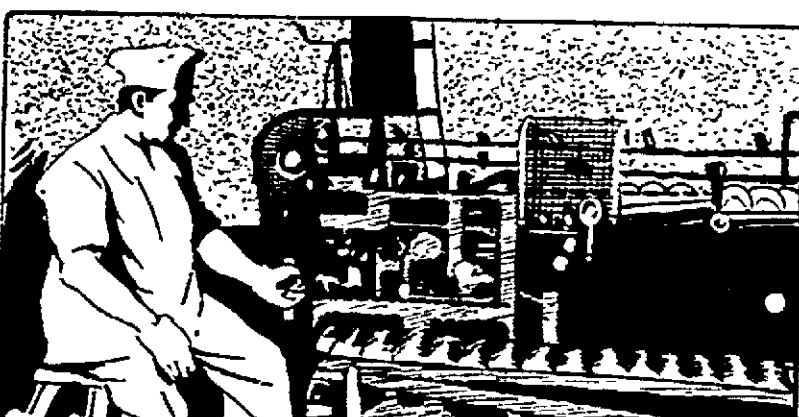

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

Mixed dough is sent to this machine. At every revolution of the cylinder in the center, dough for six loaves of bread is cut and divided.

On their way to the ovens the loaves go through this machine which places each loaf in a separate pan. Then the dough goes on a belt to the ovens.

These crusty brown loaves have been through the ovens and are ready to eat. This machine wraps each loaf in waxed paper and fastens the cover securely. You can see the uncovered loaves moving leftward on the lower belt, and the covered loaves moving to the right above. Now the bread is ready for distribution.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF CLINTONVILLE IS BURIED SUNDAY

Mrs. Harriet Hamilton, 92, Died Thursday After Several Weeks' Illness

Clintonville—The death of Mrs. Harriet Hamilton last Thursday resulted in the death of a pioneer settler of this community, who has been a continuous resident on the old homestead for 54 years.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLean, born at Durham, Canada, March 29, 1836. She married to Brown Hamilton on Aug. 17, 1857. Nine years later, they took their four children and came to Wisconsin, settling at Omro, where they lived for eight years. Mr. Hamilton followed the woods and the river, in those early days, and was while thus engaged that he acquired the homestead near this city, and George, of White Lake.

Those were the days in which the village of Embarrass gave promise of becoming a metropolis in this section, all mail as well as passenger service being brought by boat from Oshkosh, to New London thence by a stage coach line to Clintonville, Embarrass and Shawano.

All supplies and provisions were transported from the villages of Embarrass and Clintonville, usually walking to and from market, and sometimes borrowing a sack of oxen to take grain to the mill or to bring home loads too heavy for the mother and her boys to carry.

Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Frank Allender and four sons, Henry, John and Arthur, all living near the old home, and George, of White Lake, 16 grand children and 26 great grand children, and two nephews.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the home of her son Henry Hamilton, conducted by the Rev. Ben Plomper of the Methodist church of Shawano.

Bears And Porcupine To Greet Roadhouse Prowler

Special to Post-Crescent.

This question has often been in the mind of Roland Blauk, who manages and operates a roadhouse on the Hortonville road, known as Duck Inn. Another prize for this night time collector would be the big porcupine which was recently added to the zoo, or his tastes may run to black bears, in which case the big black bear which Mr. Blauk expects to arrive soon at the small zoo may join the rainbow trout.

But the animals are the real attraction. A pair of brown deer are soon to be installed in the runs being made ready.
